

Claim South Vietnamese Blunder Killed Peace Talks

SAIGON (AP) — Well-informed sources said today a meeting between U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and a high-ranking representative of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front was thwarted recently when South Vietnamese police arrested the Viet Cong emissary.

A Saigon newspaper said the proposed Bunker meeting was arranged by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency without letting the Vietnamese government know about it. A member of the South Vietnamese House of Representatives also implied that the CIA tried to set up a contact with the Viet Cong without advising the Saigon government.

The sources who reported the meeting that didn't come off said it was arranged for early in November but national police arrested the Communist envoy in Saigon before he reached the embassy.

The embassy also denied a report from other sources that Viet Cong representatives did meet in a "neutral embassy" in Saigon within the past 10 days.

lied the police did not know the purpose of the Viet Cong agent's visit to Saigon, but the agent "spilled the beans" after he was questioned.

The meeting took place while Ambassador Bunker and the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, were in Washington. The presence of Abrams indicated the meeting had something to do with military matters, possibly with the coming Christmas and New Year's cease-fires, or perhaps in connection with a prisoner exchange.

The reports of the contacts between the embassy and the Viet Cong come on the heels of indications that the Viet Cong may be trying to set up talks with the United States to seek a coalition government for South Vietnam.

The leaders of the South Vietnamese government are adamantly opposed to a coalition government and would be highly annoyed if the United States tried to meet separately.

One source said the meeting with Bunker that didn't come off had been arranged by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, perhaps without Bunker's knowledge.

Burglary Solved by Sheriff

Family Apprehended By Clinton Sheriff Linked to Local Crime

The Nov. 15 burglary of a house on the Circleville-Winchester Road was solved Thursday with the arrest of a family of itinerants in Clinton County it was announced by Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

Radcliff was able to recover a tape recorder, two watches, a billfold, a cigarette lighter, a pair of gloves and several credit cards belonging to Gale Snell, Route 1, Groveport.

A television set, a watch and a camera taken in the burglary had been sold. However, Sheriff Radcliff believes the articles may eventually be recovered, although it will take some time to trace them.

Arrested by the Clinton County Sheriff's Department were King Henry York, 30, and his wife, Jerrie Mae York, 24. Their 3-year-old daughter was with them when they were arrested.

SHERIFF Radcliff noted that Clinton County officials will file charges of breaking and entering and grand larceny against York. They may release Mrs. York to Pickaway County authorities for prosecution.

Sheriff Radcliff said the couple listed Sterling, Ill. as their home. However, they had been in a number of states recently. Authorities believe the family kept constantly on the move, burglarizing houses in areas they passed through.

According to the sheriff, their method of operation was to select a house, find out who lived there, and then ask a neighbor about the family. They would then make a telephone call to ascertain if anyone were home.

The burglary of the Snell home occurred between 6 a. m. and 4:45 p. m.

York had a police record, having served a sentence in North Carolina according to information given the sheriff.

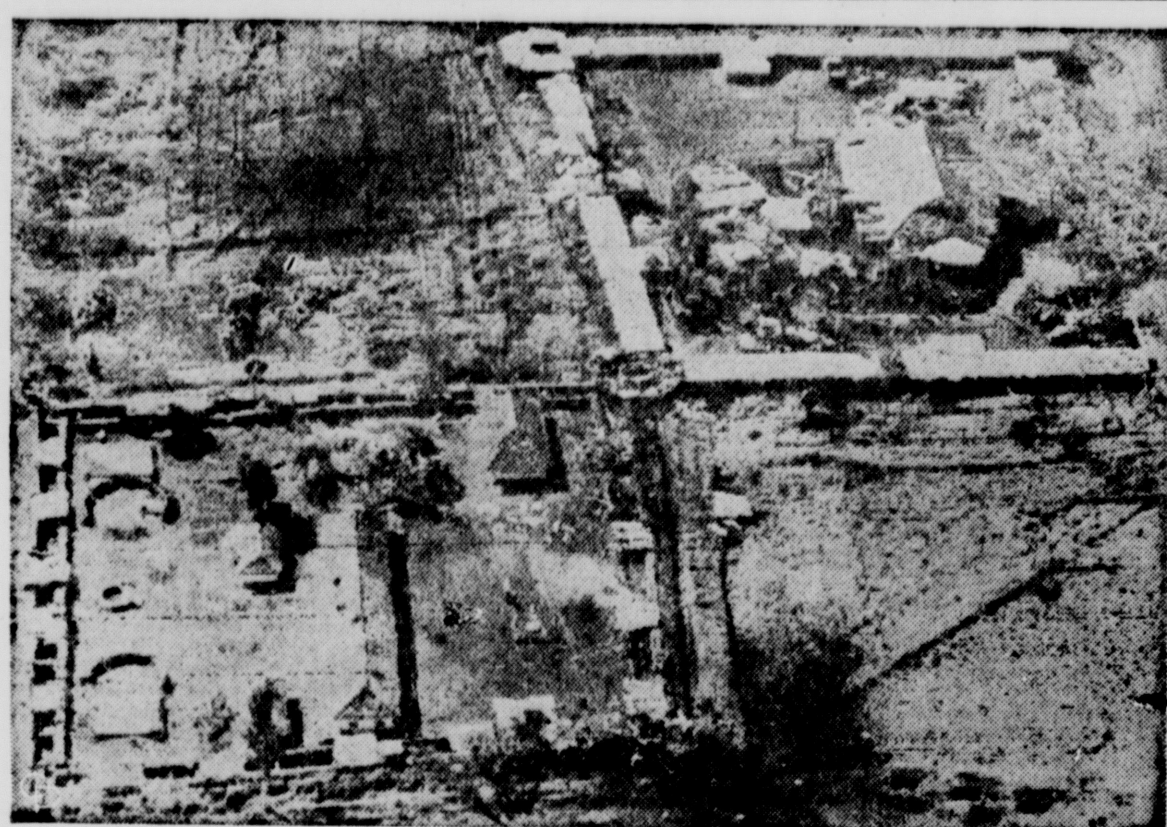

Daytonian Sentenced In Kansas

LAWRENCE Kan. (AP) — Bruce Sparks, 18, Dayton, Ohio, was sentenced Thursday to 52 years in the Kansas Prison after pleading guilty to two counts of first degree robbery, assault with intent to kill, and helping with a kidnapping.

A companion, Donald Lynch, 26, will be sentenced Monday. He pleaded guilty Wednesday to first degree robbery and first degree kidnapping.

The charges resulted from robberies of a liquor store and a motel in Lawrence last June, the shooting of the wife of the motel owner, and a wild 140-mile ride to Salina.

Thomas Daniels, 25, a University of Kansas graduate student, was taken as a hostage on the ride and was shot fatally as police fired at the fleeing car. The Ohioans ran through the stolen car into a building at Salina, where they were captured.

Thant Readies Face-Saving Peace Plan for Cyprus

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant prepared a peace appeal today to Greece and Turkey, setting the stage for a face-saving agreement to close out the threats of war over Cyprus.

Thant's move was designed to lessen the prospect of adverse Greek public reaction. It was believed the Greek people would be less aroused by a positive response on appeal to Thant than by outright capitulation to Turkey's demands.

Thant in his appeal was to call for the terms worked out by the three international peacemakers who shuttled back and forth between Athens and Ankara this week, informants said.

Major points include the withdrawal of Greek and Turkish regular army troops stationed illegally on Cyprus, Greek compensation for Turkish Cypriots killed in fighting on the island Nov. 15, and an end to Turkey's threat to invade the island 49 miles off its southern coast.

While disposing of the immediate issues, such an agreement would not settle the basic differences which brought the Greek Cypriot majority and the Turkish Cypriot minority to civil war in 1963 and has kept the island in a state of armed truce since a U.N. peace force intervened the next year.

The 1963 civil war was set off by the abrogation of the special political rights given the Turkish Cypriots in the 1960 agreements which freed Cyprus from British rule. Once the British were gone, President Makarios insisted on majority rule for his Greek Cypriots. Now the Turkish Cypriots have revived their demand for partition of the island between the two ethnic communities.

McCarthy Bid Touches Off Demo Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic senators who oppose U.S. war policies in Vietnam are considering favorable son presidential primary races, campaigns which could bolster the White House bid of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Sens. Vance Hartke of Indiana and George S. McGovern of South Dakota said favorable son campaigns are a possibility—and both added they generally agree with McCarthy's opposition to current U.S. policy in Vietnam.

McCarthy listed four primaries as certain targets. They are Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon and California.

He said he also will enter the contests in either New Hampshire or Massachusetts—or possibly both.

Among political echoes produced by McCarthy's announcement:

—In St. Paul, top leaders of the Minnesota Democratic Farmer-Labor party to which McCarthy belongs promptly issued a statement saying his candidacy won't deter them from supporting Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey—the latter still a main cog in the Minnesota organization.

—Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., a war critic and a candidate for re-election next year, was reported to have settled on a neutral stance in his state's primary.

Senate sources said Nelson would endorse neither Johnson nor McCarthy. Wisconsin, which votes on April 2, undoubtedly will be the first state in which both men will be listed on the ballot. The primary law there requires that all likely candidates be on the ballot.

—Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., a former governor, said McCarthy might carry Oregon against Johnson. In Oregon, too, all likely candidates are automatically entered.

—California politicians said McCarthy is virtually certain to have the backing of the California Democratic Council in the June 4 primary there. The 33,000-member organization already has voted to oppose Johnson in the primary with a slate of so-called peace delegates.

—Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., applauded McCarthy's move. He said it would be "helpful to the democratic system and the Democratic party to have more than one man under consideration."

But Fulbright said he did not plan to campaign for McCarthy in any primary races. Nor did other war policy critics offer any campaign assistance.

—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, expected to seek the GOP presidential nod, said in Portland, Ore., he views McCarthy's candidacy as likely to generate "a high level debate on the Vietnam war" that he said could be "a healthy development." Nixon has generally approved Johnson's war policies.

No Tax Hike Seen Before Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American taxpayer won't pay higher income taxes this year but might in 1968 if President Johnson cuts spending enough, says Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Mills told reporters Thursday it's out of the question for Congress to pass the administration's complex tax bill in the remaining weeks of the current session of Congress.

The Arkansas Democrat's remarks followed completion of his committee's hearings on Johnson's plan for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes, combined with an administration spending cut plan.

In presenting the plan, Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said it would be unthinkable not to start work on it promptly.

But Mills let the hearings lapse without scheduling any working sessions.

"We will reconvene, however, whenever there is more for the committee to consider on which we can appropriately take action," he said.

Mills said he assumed the next move would be for Budget Director Charles L. Schultze to discuss the proposed spending cuts with the House Appropriations Committee.

The tax spending plan would require action by three committees—ways and means for the $7.4 billion tax increase; Appropriations for spending cuts, projected at $4.1 billion but which Mills said should be greater; and Government Operations for a proposal, initiated by Mills, for a commission to make a long-range study of government programs.

Mills said he doubts even his committee could complete its part of the work by Jan. 1.

Crashes Claim Lives of 3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio's traffic death toll in the past 24 hours remains about normal despite hazardous driving conditions in some areas due to Thursday's general snowstorm. Major highways, however, remain clear.

The most recent traffic victims:

Edward F. Kara, 47, Cleveland.

Constance May Her, 30, Findlay.

Gary Reeves, 23, Monroe, Mich.

Constance Her died when a car carrying three other Findlay residents struck an exit island and signpost on Interstate 75 at Ohio 81 northeast of Lima Thursday night.

Reeves was injured fatally when his pickup truck crashed into a train near Athens Thursday.

Edna Woods died Thursday after a collision between her car and a truck on the Toledo-Detroit Expressway in Toledo.

Kara was killed Friday in a car-truck collision in Cleveland.

Senate Eyes School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights and religion appear the dominant issues as the Senate opens debate on a $14.2 billion federal aid to education bill.

Sponsors expressed hope the measure could be voted on today and sent to conference with the House, which earlier passed its version.

But opposition loomed from Southern Democrats and conservatives of both parties.

Major provisions of the bill would extend for three years the 1965 Elementary and Secondary School Act, by far the biggest federal aid to education program.

The measure would continue for the same period the so-called impacted areas program of grants to school districts with enrollments swollen because of federal facilities such as large military bases. It also would establish new programs intended to aid school dropouts and Spanish-speaking children and extend federal aid to adult education programs for three years.

Industry Leaders Plan Journey

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Another industrial development trip to New York City by a team of 24 Ohio industrial leaders is planned for next week, development director F. P. Neuschwander said today.

The party will leave Dec. 3 with the object of seeking out more industry to provide jobs for Ohioans. The team will call on some 200 firms in New York plus 50 in New Jersey.

Marines Push Enemy Force From Bunkers

SAIGON (AP) — The Con Thien war front erupted again Thursday, with U.S. Marines driving North Vietnamese troops from their bunkers after a close-quarter battle just below the demilitarized zone. Meanwhile, a Red force continued to menace a U.S. infantry battalion at the Bu Dop Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border.

A company of Marines ran into heavy machine-gun and mortar fire from an entrenched North Vietnamese company, estimated at about 135 men.

Three more Leatherneck companies joined the battle, giving the Marines about 700 men. Manoeuvring around the enemy's flank, the Americans drove the Communists out of their heavily fortified positions in a four-hour battle.

Field reports said 26 North Vietnamese and 15 Americans were killed and 54 Americans wounded in the fighting, which was at such close quarters that the Marines could not use their artillery.

The fighting broke a lull on the DMZ front during which the Communists had concentrated on new targets, chiefly allied outposts along South Vietnam's 400-mile-long land border with Cambodia. The enemy's aim on both fronts apparently is the same—to operate close to his supply trails and to draw Americans away from protection of more populous areas where the government's pacification program has been making progress.

At Bu Dop, three miles from the Cambodian border and 80 miles north of Saigon, an understrength battalion from the U.S. 1st Infantry Division which drove off a hard Red assault early Thursday reported today that a large Communist force was still facing it.

An American patrol bumped into the enemy lines just 75 yards from the end of the American air strip and pulled back from a Communist volley of sniper fire.

The Americans called in Air Force jets to hit the enemy positions with bombs and napalm.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from the camp that the air strip was the battalion's only link to the outside.

Troy Police Chief Gets Demotion

TROY, Ohio (AP) — Police Chief Robert E. Brown, 46, was demoted to lieutenant Thursday by Mayor William Thornburg, who charged him with incompetency and inefficiency.

Lt. Charles L. Price, 34, was named acting chief.

Brown can appeal the demotion to the city's Civil Service Commission.

Earlier this year, the mayor had asked City Council to create the post of assistant safety director to ensure "discipline and leadership" in the police force, but no action has been taken.

Snow Storm Paralyzes Many East Coast Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Residents of the heavily populated belt from Washington to New York manned shovels, brooms and plows today as they began to dig out from the first heavy snowfall of the season.

The storm swirled across the Eastern Seaboard Thursday and dumped up to 12 inches of snow on the string of cities stretching from Virginia, through Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey into New York.

The nation's capital was buried under a half-foot of snow, and as much as 12 inches fell in suburban areas in Virginia and Maryland.

Government agencies remained open but some of them allowed workers to leave early. Many schools closed and sent their charges home for the day. Downtown stores that planned to stay open until 9 p.m. closed at 6.

Snowfall of 8.2 inches at College Park, Md., home of the University of Maryland, set a record for November. The previous high mark for the month was 6 inches, set Nov. 26, 1938.

Snow-laden tree limbs snapped power lines throughout Washington's suburbs in Virginia and Maryland. Phone service was cut off in Alexandria and Arlington, Va. power was expected to be restored in most areas today.

Baltimore got 6 inches of snow, Frederick in western Maryland got 5 and Salisbury on the Eastern shore got 1. Schools in several Maryland counties were closed today. Only two of the 12 ships scheduled to leave the Baltimore Maritime Exchange were able to do so.

Driving was treacherous on all turnpikes connecting the urban centers of the Eastern megalopolis. Police said more than 100 pieces of snow-removal equipment were at work on the New Jersey Turnpike, a major access to New York City.

Five traffic deaths in Pennsylvania were attributed directly to the storm. Among the fatalities were three school teachers killed in a car-truck collision in Glen Campbell, Pa.

Eight inches of snow in central New Jersey caused two traffic deaths and scores of minor accidents as commuters poured out of New York City and headed home Thursday evening.

All westbound lanes of the Lincoln Tunnel out of Manhattan were closed because of icing at the New Jersey end.

Driving was treacherous on all turnpikes connecting the urban centers of the Eastern megapolis. Police said more than 100 pieces of snow-removal equipment were at work on the New Jersey Turnpike, a major access to New York City.

Five traffic deaths in Pennsylvania were attributed directly to the storm. Among the fatalities were three school teachers killed in a car-truck collision in Glen Campbell, Pa.

Eight inches of snow in central New Jersey caused two traffic deaths and scores of minor accidents as commuters poured out of New York City and headed home Thursday evening.

All westbound lanes of the Lincoln Tunnel out of Manhattan were closed because of icing at the New Jersey end.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surpassing every historic record, the nation has entered its 82nd consecutive month of economic activity without a recession.

The end of the 81st month of expansion was reached Thursday, exceeding the former 80-month record—a period which coincided with World War II and part of the prewar period.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army National Guard says it has suspended recruiting of men without prior military service in an attempt to cut back to its authorized strength of 400,000 by next summer.

The action, effective immediately, may mean disappointment to young men who want to sign up with a Guard unit so they can avoid the draft and two years of active military service.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI, says Director J. Edgar Hoover, is working with all other federal and local law enforcement agencies to fight organized crime.

Hoover's statement in the current issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin is rejection of suggestions heard in the Justice Department and elsewhere that the FBI is giving less than full support to Attorney General Ramsey Clark's formation of "strike forces" to combat criminal organizations.

'Bait' Used To Better Report Cards

CHICAGO (AP) — For dozens of Negro children in a deteriorating South Side neighborhood, report card day means a visit to Mr. T's record shop.

Mr. T is Max Tannenbaum, 48, a white shopkeeper who has worked what he calls "a small miracle" among the children of the area. He has induced previously uninterested, unmotivated boys and girls to compete for good grades.

A jolly, talkative man with thinning hair and a ready smile, Mr. T began about a year ago rewarding good report cards with free records.

It all started when he saw the report card of a 15-year-old boy — "a sharp kid" — who was listening to records in his shop.

It contained mostly U's and F's (unsatisfactory or failing). "Tell you what," Mr. T told the boy, "Next time get all E's and I'll give you $5 worth of records. You pick 'em out. Is that a deal?"

It was, Ten weeks later the boy brought in a new report card. It showed straight E's (excellent).

So Mr. T put signs in each of the 18 apartment buildings on his block announcing that he would give free records for the eight best report cards brought in next marking day.

"Ever since," he said, "kids have been coming in and saying, 'Gee, I'm studying hard so I can win some records next time.'"

Court News

Compensation Ruling

Alma and Flora Sowers, Route 1, Clarksburg, have filed an action in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court appealing a decision of the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation in a death claim.

Their son, Carl Sowers, suffocated in a grain silo July 9, 1966, at the Buckeye Farm Supply, Derby. The BWC had granted the death claim, allowing $3,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Sowers are appealing the amount of the claim.

Policeman Quits Force

Finley Accepts Post On Chillicothe PD

Circleville Policeman Arthur Finley submitted a letter of resignation to Chief of Police Robert Temple today.

Finley asked to be relieved of his duties effective Dec. 16, so he would be free to accept a position with the Chillicothe Police Department.

In his letter of resignation, Finley said:

"I deeply regret that I must inform you that I hereby resign from my position as patrolman of the Circleville Police Department. . . I have accepted a position with Chillicothe Police Department with better pay, shorter hours, paid holidays and other benefits which I feel will be of greater help to my family and myself."

IT is the second resignation from the city force within a month. Veteran Patrolman Richard Blancy left after 10 years of service for a better paying job in local industry.

A member of the force since March 30, 1966 and a regular patrolman since June 1, 1967, Finley was assigned to the third truck under Sgt. Rod List.

The Circleville Police force is currently three men under its authorized personnel. According to Chief of Police Temple, only one man has expressed interest in taking the civil service examination for policeman scheduled Dec. 20.

Harsha Bedridden, Fulfills Duties

Congressman William H. Harsha has suffered a slipped disc in his back and has been ordered to bed by his doctors for medical treatment and relief of pain.

To enable the Congressman to be present to vote on the issues still pending before Congress, a bed has been provided for him in a room at the Capitol.

His doctors have given him permission to be up long enough to be present on the floor of the House of Representatives to vote. At other times, he is confined to bed.

The Ohio lawmaker will remain in bed at his home over the weekends, but will be at the Capitol while Congress is in session.

Local Man

Resists Arrest;

Draws $200 Fine

Ronnie O. Allen, 31, of 419 E. Union St., pleaded guilty in Municipal Court Thursday to charges of resisting arrest, failing to obey a stop light and being intoxicated.

Judge Sterling Lamb sentenced Allen to 30 days in the county jail and levied a $200 fine for resisting arrest, a $50 fine for being intoxicated and a fine of $24 for violating a traffic light.

County Gets

Pickaway County received $85,252.50 in advance 1967 auto license revenues from the state of Ohio recently.

The county rated 62nd lowest among the state's 88 counties in the amount of money received.

This was the second advance distribution of 1967 auto license revenues this year, bringing to a total of $97,475,606.28 the amount of money released to the state's political subdivisions.

Supervisor Named at DuPont Plant

RICHARD E. FOX

Richard E. Fox, a foreman in "Mylar" manufacturing at DuPont's Circleville plant, was recently named supervisor in manufacturing.

Fox was first employed by the company in October of 1958 as an operator in manufacturing. He was promoted to foreman in 1962.

A veteran of the U.S. Army, the new supervisor is a graduate of Laureville High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Fox, Laureville.

Fox is a member of Pickaway Lodge No. 23 F & AM and counselor of the Youth Fellowship of the First EUB Church.

He and his wife, Jo Ann, have two children, Richard Scott and Bradley. They reside at 582 Garden Parkway.

Hocking Area Gets Airport

LOGAN, O. — Hocking County commissioners authorized the county airport authority to enter into a contract for construction of an airport.

The Engle Construction Co. has submitted a bid of $141,880.22 for construction of the airport. The airport authority has $100,000 earmarked by the state for airport construction.

Ned Cochran, airport authority chairman, said industrial leaders of the community have agreed to donate toward the facility although they did not want to obligate themselves until they knew the airport was assured.

Light Docket

At Muny Court

Traffic violations were charged against three local residents and four out-of-county motorists in Municipal Court Thursday.

Walter C. Rayburn 47, of 368 Walnut St., pleaded guilty to charges of reckless operation of a car. He was fined $50 and costs by Judge Sterling Lamb.

Robert Johnson, 43, Lockbourne, forfeited a bond of $19 set on charges of having a defective muffler.

James Marshall, 39, of Orient, forfeited a bond of $24 set on charges of speeding 75 miles in a 60 mile zone.

The court collected $91 in fines and bond forfeitures from out-of-county motorists.

Cleveland Water

Main Breaks

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 36-inch water main broke at East 70th and Hough Avenue today, causing extreme flooding in the area. The East Ohio Gas Co. shut off gas service in the area, as a precautionary measure.

The water break undermined the street and caused a 40 by 60 foot hole. Large chunks of concrete broke off the street and dropped into the swirling water.

Report on City Schools

Lunch Program Is Aided By State, Federal Funds

By FRITZ JACOBS

City School Superintendent

The school lunch program of the Circleville City School system provides children of the various schools an opportunity for a hot well-balanced lunch daily at a very low per lunch cost.

This is possible due to federal surplus commodities provided through the National School Lunch Program. It also provides the system the opportunity of providing free lunches to children who cannot afford to pay for a lunch. The National Lunch Program, in its twenty-first year, remains an example of how Federal, State and local agencies can work together for the health and well being of the nation's children.

Stock Market Nearly Same

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market showed a little less on average early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

The Dow Jones industrials average at noon was down 2.43 at 873.38.

A few more stocks rose than fell on the New York Stock Exchange.

Selective weakness in blue chips accounted for the drop on average even though a number of the most actively traded issues attracted speculative buying and moved ahead nicely.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .4 at 314.3 with industrials off 1.0, rails up .3, and utilities off .3.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was about the same as Thursday's moderately active pace. Gains outnumbered losses and the index of the A.S.E. was up.

The Circleville Police force is currently three men under its authorized personnel. According to Chief of Police Temple, only one man has expressed interest in taking the civil service examination for policeman scheduled Dec. 20.

Harsha Bedridden, Fulfills Duties

Congressman William H. Harsha has suffered a slipped disk in his back and has been ordered to bed by his doctors for medical treatment and relief of pain.

To enable the Congressman to be present to vote on the issues still pending before Congress, a bed has been provided for him in a room at the Capitol.

His doctors have given him permission to be up long enough to be present on the floor of the House of Representatives to vote. At other times, he is confined to bed.

The Ohio lawmaker will remain in bed at his home over the weekends, but will be at the Capitol while Congress is in session.

Resists Arrest; Draws $200 Fine

Ronnie O. Allen, 31, of 419 E. Union St., pleaded guilty in Municipal Court Thursday to charges of resisting arrest, failing to obey a stop light and being intoxicated.

Judge Sterling Lamb sentenced Allen to 30 days in the county jail and levied a $200 fine for resisting arrest, a $50 fine for being intoxicated and a fine of $24 for violating a traffic light.

County Gets $85,252.50

Pickaway County received $85,252.50 in advance 1967 auto license revenues from the state of Ohio recently.

The county rated 62nd lowest among the state's 88 counties in the amount of money received.

This was the second advance distribution of 1967 auto license revenues this year, bringing to a total of $97,475,606.28 the amount of money released to the state's political subdivisions.

Compensation Ruling

Alma and Flora Sowers, Route 1, Clarksburg, have filed an action in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court appealing a decision of the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation in a death claim.

Their son, Carl Sowers, suffocated in a grain silo July 9, 1966, at the Buckeye Farm Supply, Derby. The BWC had granted the death claim, allowing $3,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Sowers are appealing the amount of the claim.

RICHARD E. FOX

Richard E. Fox, a foreman in "Mylar" manufacturing at DuPont's Circleville plant, was recently named supervisor in manufacturing.

Fox was first employed by the company in October of 1958 as an operator in manufacturing. He was promoted to foreman in 1962.

A veteran of the U.S. Army, the new supervisor is a graduate of Laurelville High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Fox, Laurelville.

Fox is a member of Pickaway Lodge No. 23 F & AM and counsellor of the Youth Fellowship of the First EUB Church.

He and his wife, Jo Ann, have two children, Richard Scott and Bradley. They reside at 582 Garden Parkway.

Hocking Area Gets Airport

LOGAN, O. — Hocking County commissioners authorized the county airport authority to enter into a contract for construction of an airport.

The Engle Construction Co. has submitted a bid of $141,880.22 for construction of the airport. The airport authority has $100,000 earmarked by the state for airport construction.

Ned Cochran, airport authority chairman, said industrial leaders of the community have agreed to donate toward the facility although they did not want to obligate themselves until they knew the airport was assured.

Light Docket At Muny Court

Traffic violations were charged against three local residents and four out-of-county motorists in Municipal Court Thursday.

Walter C. Rayburn, 47, of 368 Walnut St., pleaded guilty to charges of reckless operation of a car. He was fined $50 and costs by Judge Sterling Lamb.

Robert Johnson, 43, Lockbourne, forfeited a bond of $19 set on charges of having a defective muffler.

James Marshall, 39, of Orient, forfeited a bond of $24 set on charges of speeding 75 miles in a 60 mile zone.

The court collected $91 in fines and bond forfeitures from out-of-county motorists.

Cleveland Water Main Breaks

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 36-inch water main broke at East 70th and Hough Avenue today, causing extreme flooding in the area. The East Ohio Gas Co. shut off gas service in the area, as a precautionary measure.

The water break undermined the street and caused a 40 by 60 foot hole. Large chunks of concrete broke off the street and dropped into the swirling water.

Report on City Schools

Lunch Program Is Aided By State, Federal Funds

By FRITZ JACOBS

City School Superintendent

The school lunch program of the Circleville City School system provides children of the various schools an opportunity for a hot well-balanced lunch daily at a very low per lunch cost.

This is possible due to federal surplus commodities provided through the National School Lunch Program. It also provides the system the opportunity of providing free lunches to children who cannot afford to pay for a lunch. The National Lunch Program, in its twenty-first year, remains an example of how Federal, State and local agencies can work together for the health and well being of the nation's children.

Stock Market Nearly Same

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market showed a little less on average early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

The Dow Jones industrials average at noon was down 2.43 at 873.38.

A few more stocks rose than fell on the New York Stock Exchange.

Selective weakness in blue chips accounted for the drop on average even though a number of the most actively traded issues attracted speculative buying and moved ahead nicely.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .4 at 314.3 with industrials off 1.0, rails up .3, and utilities off .3.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was about the same as Thursday's moderately active pace. Gains outnumbered losses and the index of the A.S.E. was up.

Other information relative to average of pupil attendance, etc., are also provided.

A special milk program exists as a part of the lunch program which provides the opportunity for additional bottles of milk at three cents per bottle. The school system utilizes 30,000 half pints of milk per month.

The operation of the cafeteria requires 20 full-time and two half-time cooks and managers and in addition to this employees student help and janitorial services are provided and necessary.

Whereas some meals are more popular with students than others and therefore creates a fluctuating participation daily, it must be remembered that surplus commodities must be incorporated in the program in order to retain the low cost per pupil and to be eligible for state participation. Strict standards of health, safety and sanitation are additional requirements which receive annual inspection.

The program in the Circleville City Schools is coordinated by the Business Manager, Virgil Cress.

The School Lunch Program is another example of the many services offered students of the school district.

IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS — 4-H Club members in Pickaway County should receive their fair premium payments before Christmas for the first time in many years, according to Glenn McCoy, fair board president. The board recently presented a check to County Agent George Hamrick in the amount of $4,623 for distribution to 4-H exhibitors. Present when the check was presented were, from the left, Richard Shaw, vice president; Rojer Bowers, secretary-treasurer of the fair board, McCoy and Hamrick.

Ammer Elected President of Ohio Judges

Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Ammer today was elected president of the Ohio Common Pleas Judges Assn. at their annual meeting held at the Christopher Inn in Columbus.

Ammer this past year served as first vice president and previously was the chairman of the legislative committee of the judicial group.

Judge Ammer was appointed as Common Pleas Judge in May 1957 and has served continuously since that date, twice having been elected to that office in 1958 and 1964. His other public service includes that as assistant attorney general of Ohio and prosecuting attorney of Pickaway County for four and one half years. Presently he is serving as chairman of the Criminal Law Committee of the Ohio State Bar Assn.

He was admitted to the practice of law in 1947. Ammer is active in various civic and fraternal organizations.

Judge Otis Hess of Hamilton County was named first vice president for the ensuing year. Judge Robert Leach of Franklin County is the retiring president of the association.

The program for the meeting which concludes Saturday includes the annual banquet tonight featured by an address by State Senator Tennyson Guyer of Findlay. Significant legislation of the General Assembly in 1967 will be reviewed by State Representative Keith McNamara of Columbus. Saturday morning session will relate to recent legislation as to domestic relations cases.

1967 Fair Premiums Total $11,650, Board Announces

The Pickaway fair officials presented a check for $4,623 in 4-H premiums to George Hamrick Extension Agent thus bringing the total premiums paid for the 1967 fair to $11,650.80.

GM Union Meets for Strike Vote

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers General Motors Council meeting today was called to set a date for a GM strike if one is necessary, a UAW spokesman says.

The UAW and General Motors resumed negotiations on a new contract this week for the first time since Oct. 31. General Motors has indicated it is willing to write a contract with the union that is within the limits of the record economic agreements won for the union's 160,000 members at Ford Motor Co. and 103,000 at Chrysler Corp.

Whether or not the union makes any special demands of GM could be a key factor in causing a strike.

One company source said that if Reuther goes for any "frosting" on the cake at GM, "He'll be in for a big fight."

The union told the company Monday that what it called "erosion of the bargaining unit" by moving automated jobs out of union jurisdiction will be an important issue.

Representation, specifically the company requirement that union committeemen work at least an hour a day on their regular jobs, is also expected to cause trouble.

The union represents 380,000 workers at GM.

Hershey Finds Draft Card Returns Mixed with Others

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft chief Lewis B. Hershey says he isn't getting as many draft cards as he expected from Vietnam war protestors—but he is receiving plenty of drivers' licenses.

About three of four cards he receives from protestors turn out to be drivers' licenses or other nondraft cards, Hershey said Thursday.

"I suppose I'm a trusting soul," the 74-year-old Selective Service System director said. "When I read in the newspaper that somebody said he turned in his draft card, I suppose he did."

"But it was surprising to me, the low number of real draft cards that were turned in," added the lieutenant general in a telephone interview. "I'm a little disillusioned, but I must say I'm happy to be disillusioned about this."

He cited as an example the "basketful, about a thousand" draft cards that leaders of the Oct. 21 protest march on the Pentagon claimed they were turning in.

Only 297 persons actually turned in valid cards, the Justice Department said, after it sorted them out.

"There have been times when 90 per cent were not real cards," Hershey said. "They turn in all kinds of things."

Hershey said he could provide no nationwide figures on the number of legitimate cards turned in because those sent to state draft officials or other government agencies are passed along to the appropriate local boards without going through his office.

Hershey said many of the phony cards apparently come from "kids in a group" who put something in the bag so they won't look bad to their friends.

"A lot of them participate in these protests until it starts to pinch," was Hershey's opinion, referring to penalties for mutilating or throwing away draft cards.

Burning one—a violation of federal law—could result in up to 5 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Returning one—failure to carry it as required by draft regulations—can result in a delinquency ruling, a 1-A classification and immediate "greetings" from Uncle Sam.

But card-burning is hard to prove since the evidence goes up in smoke.

Since Aug. 30, 1965, when the law took effect, the Justice Department has investigated uncounted cardburning cases and ended up filing charges in only 21. There were 14 convictions and 2 dismissals upon other convictions.

Two other cases were dismissed because the defendants were found to have mental disorders. Three cases are awaiting trial.

Card-dropping is easier to prove, but since fined action is up to each protestor's local draft board the national draft headquarters has no detailed figures.

Watch It, Santa

'Tis the time of year when jolly old St. Nick beckons from his throne in the stores to all the children to come and tell him all about their youthful desires for Christmas.

With stars in their eyes the little ones will shyly but determinedly approach the familiar figure in the red suit, climb on his lap, look at the huge white beard and, maybe, turn up their noses.

Santa just shouldn't have onions for lunch. And he ought to watch the cigars and liquor too. Santa, whether he is in the department store, on television or standing on the corner, has to behave like Santa Claus.

He has to smell nice, talk nice, show his fans he is sincere, and for the sake of the parents, not make any promises he cannot keep. Take a lesson fellows. This is your time of the year. Don't blow it.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert McNamara's departure from the position of defense secretary may not remove him entirely from the problems of Vietnam. It could, eventually, involve him deeply, but in a far different role.

As president of the World Bank, which renders service to all parts of the world as its financial resources do also; it lends money for projects in all parts of the world and its staff is drawn from all nations.

Owned by shareholder governments, it makes long term loans at regular interest rates to developing nations for electric power, transportation, agriculture, industry and education.

From its headquarters at 17th and L Streets, Washington, it already has lent $10 billion, of which $3 billion has already been repaid. This leads to the question of where the money comes from.

Member countries put up some capital, but the larger part of the bank's resources comes from borrowing in the capital markets, much as any corporation would. I is a profit-seeking venture. Last year it made $170 million.

It also has a mandate to stay out of politics, although of necessity it has become deeply involved in giving advice on economics, engineering and administration along with its money.

The term World Bank is actually the popular designation for a group of three institutions centered on the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, which by itself is also called the World Bank.

Allied with it is the International Development Association, or IDA, which handles the same type of business as the IBRD but on easier repayment conditions. It deals with the very poorest countries, and more than 70 per cent of its $1.6 billion of commitments have been in Asia.

The third institution in the World Bank group is the International Finance Corporation, or IFC, which lends directly to private parties rather than to governments. Most of its $200 million in commitments is in Latin America.

Since the World Bank president heads all three institutions, it isn't difficult to imagine the power of that office. In the possession of a man who understands power and administration, such as Robert McNamara, that office can be even a larger world force than it was under the very able George Woods.

Under Woods, advice as well as money has become more and more important in World Bank activities.

In his annual report, Woods included some very significant comments, including the statement that bank officials find themselves talking increasingly with members about "fundamental policies to govern their day-to-day economic decisions."

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — In the days of the cave man it was easy to tell a man from a woman.

The man was the one who carried the club, who ate first and took the choicest pieces of meat, and wore the warmest furs in winter.

The woman was the one who had lumps on her head, ate the leftovers, and followed three paces or more behind the guy with the big club.

All this has been substantially changed. Civilization steadily tends to iron out the difference between the sexes. They talk and walk and think and act and dress so much alike that it sometimes takes a trained eye to tell them apart.

Despite the trend toward similarity, they can still be classified with fair accuracy by a careful observer.

For example, here are a few guidelines: If it shows up for breakfast with wire curlers on its head, it's a wife. If it has a cut on its face from shaving and is reading the morning newspaper, it's a husband.

If one says to the other, "Why, you old fool, you," that's grumpy grandma. If it replies placatingly, "Now, Mama, you know you shouldn't talk to me thataway," that's grandpa.

Does it curl its legs up under it when it sits on the sofa? It's a girl. Does it sprawl back on the sofa and stretch out spraddle-legged? It's a boy.

Can it wear a nest of robins in its hair? Put it down as probably a female hippie. Can it wear a nest of robins in its beard as well as its hair? Undoubtedly a male hippie.

Does it wear rubber gloves while doing the dishes? Hi there, Mom! Does it do the dishes bare-handed and curse when it burns its fingers in the hot water? Poor Dad!

If it thinks money grows on trees, it's a her. If it loyally spends most of its life trying to find that kind of tree for her, it's a him.

If it bends over a coffin and lovingly kisses the dead lips therein, that's the widow. If it just stands wet-eyed by the coffin, guiltily whispering to its own soul, "I sure gave the old girl a rough time all the way," that's the widower.

Does it say after a business luncheon, "Gimme the check—this one's on me," it's a male executive. Does it say, "No, let's go dutch"—but really doesn't mean it at all—it's a career woman.

Of course, in an emergency, if you feel it is necessary to know the sex of another person and can't decide, you can take the direct approach and ask the person involved.

If you get your face slapped, it's a woman. If you start bleeding from a punch on the nose, it's a man.

NEW YORK (AP) — Perry Como appeared on NBC Thursday night for the first time this season, with a new sponsor, a new tempo to his program and new attention to the music of today's youth.

The star of the program ambled through his special with his usual easy manner, singing nicely, smiling a lot and essaying an occasional low-key joke. But the unusual part of the show was definitely not Como's familiar style.

It was the two numbers by San Francisco's Jefferson Airplane, a long-haired, strangely attired singing group with an interesting, disturbing sound at least disturbing to the older, square folks at home. The small screen suddenly looked like a cross between an episode of "The Monkees" and bacteria life viewed through a microscope.

There were slow-motion sequences with various members of the group in curious costumes galloping across a field as in a dream. There were cut-ins on film to simulate a psychedelic effect. There were double and triple images. Sometimes the background against which the group sang looked like an enormous, writhing Rorschach test and sometimes like magnified cells moving around on a microscope slide.

Como slyly followed these numbers with a song that started "I think I'm going out of my head . . ."

Dan Rowan and Dick Martin guest starred with one mildly amusing sketch and gag interview with a State Department protocol expert plus a series of blackouts kidding TV commercials which came off about as well as such gags usually do—not very well.

Como's singing guest was Bobbie Gentry, the long-haired singer in slacks who has been making the variety rounds assiduously of late, so she was not a novelty.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What can you tell me about a pre-cancer condition that was found on me by a Pap smear test? I was sent into a hospital and re-examined only to find that I had no cancer at all.

Whom shall I believe and whom can I turn to? I am petrified, even though I've been told by two doctors that I do not need an operation.

Mrs. M., Indiana
Dear Mrs. M.: Let me first explain to my readers that a "Pap smear" is short for a test named after its discoverer, Dr. Papanicolaou. A smear taken of the cervix of the uterus, or womb, may show early signs of a cancerous condition.

Because of the simplicity of the test, early cancers can be recognized and the result has been a remarkable reduction of deaths from neglected cancers. The Pap test is a monument to its discoverer who has saved hundreds of thousands of lives since he first described it.

When the Pap smear shows any unusual cells, it is almost always repeated to be sure. Occasionally, there is a "false positive" test which alerts the doctor to the need for an additional smear. Fortunately, in your case no cancer cells were found and you were discharged with the assurance that you have no trouble and that surgery is not needed.

You ask, "Whom can I believe and whom can I turn to?" You can and must believe the two doctors who agreed that you do not have a cancer. They certainly would not disregard it if you had a serious condition, for there are too many excellent operations which now can control and cure cancer of the cervix. Why should they deprive you of these excellent results if you had any positive evidence of cancer?

It is understandable that you are confused because at first you were told that you had a pre-cancerous condition. This really should show you how careful your physician is to respect any positive or suggestive signs of trouble.

There is no longer any need for you to be confused. I am certain that your doctors would like to re-examine you by this simple, painless technique every six months to be sure that you continue in perfect health.

I would now like to talk about my personal feelings about a rather terrifying suggestion that this or that condition might be "pre-cancerous," and, therefore, should be watched. I truly believe that this attitude does a great injustice to many people who become fearful and anxious when they are told to "watch" something because it is pre-cancerous.

Some physicians may disagree with my particular personal hostility to this concept. It is my feeling that if anything should be watched it should be watched by the doctor and not by the patient.

I believe, too, that the patient should not be told that the doctor suspects a pre-cancerous condition. The patient should only be told when the doctor's decision is final.

I have known a number of patients whose lives have virtually been ruined because the vague "pre-cancerous idea" has been falsely implanted in them.

To me, pre-cancer is like being pre-pregnant. You either are or you're not. Until it is proven and until the treatment is completely outlined, I do not believe the patient should go through life expecting a calamity that may never occur.

I do not believe that you have cause for concern, but verify this at regular intervals with your doctors who are following your condition.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert S. McNamara's almost mysterious switch in jobs from secretary of defense to the presidency of the World Bank is just about complete after a public relations mix-up with few equals.

Although McNamara as secretary has one of the most important posts in government the news of his leaving came not as a public announcement at the White House but as a report from London last Monday.

It wasn't until Wednesday night that President Johnson and McNamara, in separate public announcements, confirmed it.

On Monday the London Financial Times reported McNamara's departure on the basis of information supplied by a World Bank director.

That afternoon at a news briefing in the White House the President's press secretary, George Christian, was asked about the report. His reply was, "no comment."

This was almost the same as saying, "It's true." It would have been indeed strange if such a story about a man in such a high position was untrue and the White House didn't hasten to refute it.

Johnson and McNamara kept mum Monday, Tuesday and until Wednesday night.

But American reporters had other sources of information besides the White House—McNamara himself would say nothing—and they went to work on them and got answers.

As a result the Tuesday morning papers were able to say flatly that Johnson had nominated McNamara for the bank presidency. It wasn't certain McNamara would get the job until the board of directors approved.

But it was about as certain as anything could be because an American has headed the bank since it was opened for business in 1945. However, the board was not scheduled to meet until Wednesday.

Since the board was almost certain to approve McNamara, which it did Wednesday afternoon, the reticence of Johnson and McNamara in saying anything until the board acted could be interpreted as deference to the board or a desire to be accused of trying to pressure it.

Shortly after McNamara got approval—the board will ask him formally to be president after some other necessary steps are taken—he issued a statement saying he is resigning as defense secretary to be president of the bank.

Johnson followed this quickly with a statement of his own. The President spoke in the highest terms of McNamara's service in the Defense Department but, to this writer, his language seemed rigid if not frigid.

And there was even a bit of the mysterious in what the two men said.

McNamara said that last April the outgoing president of the bank, George D. Woods, asked him if he would be interested in being president and added the secretary didn't have to make a decision then.

McNamara said he was interested in the kind of job the bank does—helping in the economic development of backward countries—and told Johnson later about his conversation with Woods.

In October, McNamara said, Johnson told him the nomination for bank president would soon have to be made and asked if McNamara were still interested. The secretary said he was.

McNamara mentioned in his statement Wednesday no further talk with Johnson about it. And McNamara's associates said Wednesday he was bewildered when news of the nomination leaked out this week.

In his own statement, Johnson mentioned a conversation with McNamara "some time ago" with about the job and said McNamara expressed willingness to accept it if the President would consent. But Johnson did not indicate he had talked with McNamara since October or even told him he was being recommended.

This creates a bit of a new mystery. With the going of McNamara, who wanted a much more restrained kind of war in Vietnam than the Joint Chiefs of Staff thought necessary, it should be no surprise if now the war takes a tougher turn.

Television Revolution

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television programming, which has been wedded to fixed formulas for 15 years, is undergoing a small-scale revolution because of the popularity of feature films this season.

That is the outlook as seen from the vantage point of Herbert S. Schlosser, who as West Coast program vice president for NBC is one of the handful of men who decide what will appear on the home screen.

From the days of 12-inch screens, the half-hour program, particularly the situation comedy, has been a staple of television. This season the half-hours, particularly the new ones, have been hurting because of the competition of six nights of feature films on the networks.

"There will still be room for the half-hour show," observed Schlosser, "but the trend is toward fewer of them."

"There will probably be more hour shows and 90-minute shows as well. We have even considered a two-hour series, but that is something that will need to be carefully planned."

Why have feature films proved so popular this season? "Because the audience has been getting a general run of bigger pictures," Schlosser theorized. "Many of them are only two years old, and that adds to the appeal."

"Also I believe the features are popular because the country is becoming more urban all the time. More people of higher income and upper middle-class watch them than most other programs. That helps make features attractive to sponsors."

Schlosser said NBC was the first to go into the field, beginning several years ago with Saturday Night at the Movies.

NBC has also pioneered with recently made movies contracted by Universal for first showing on TV. Eight were presented last season, two so far this year. All have scored as well or better than features that had already appeared in theaters.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert McNamara's departure from the position of defense secretary may not remove him entirely from the problems of Vietnam. It could, eventually, involve him deeply, but in a far different role.

As president of the World Bank, which renders service to all parts of the world, its financial resources do also; it lends money for projects in all parts of the world and its staff is drawn from all nations.

Owned by shareholder governments, it makes long term loans at regular interest rates to developing nations for electric power, transportation, agriculture, industry and education.

From its headquarters at 17th and L Streets, Washington, it already has lent $10 billion, of which $3 billion has already been repaid. This leads to the question of where the money comes from.

Member countries put up some capital, but the larger part of the bank's resources comes from borrowing in the capital markets, much as any corporation would. I is a profit-seeking venture. Last year it made $170 million.

It also has a mandate to stay out of politics, although of necessity it has become deeply involved in giving advice on economics, engineering and administration along with its money.

The term World Bank is actually the popular designation for a group of three institutions centered on the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, which by itself is also called the World Bank.

Allied with it is the International Development Association, or IDA, which handles the same type of business as the IBRD but on easier repayment conditions. It deals with the very poorest countries, and more than 70 per cent of its $1.6 billion of commitments have been in Asia.

The third institution in the World Bank group is the International Finance Corporation, or IFC, which lends directly to private parties rather than to governments. Most of its $200 million in commitments is in Latin America.

Since the World Bank president heads all three institutions, it isn't difficult to imagine the power of that office. In the possession of a man who understands power and administration, such as Robert McNamara, that office can be even a larger world force than it was under the very able George Woods.

Under Woods, advice as well as money has become more and more important in World Bank activities.

In his annual report, Woods included some very significant comments, including the statement that bank officials find themselves talking increasingly with members about "fundamental policies to govern their day-to-day economic decisions."

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — In the days of the cave man it was easy to tell a man from a woman.

The man was the one who carried the club, who ate first and took the choicest pieces of meat, and wore the warmest furs in winter.

The woman was the one who had lumps on her head, ate the leftovers, and followed three paces or more behind the guy with the big club.

All this has been substantially changed. Civilization steadily tends to iron out the difference between the sexes. They talk and walk and think and act and dress so much alike that it sometimes takes a trained eye to tell them apart.

Despite the trend toward similarity, they can still be classified with fair accuracy by a careful observer.

For example, here are a few guidelines:

If it shows up for breakfast with wire curlers on its head, it's a wife. If it has a cut on its face from shaving and is reading the morning newspaper, it's a husband.

If one says to the other, "Why, you old fool, you," that's grumpy grandma. If it replies placatingly, "Now, Mama, you know you shouldn't talk to me thataway," that's grandpa.

Does it curl its legs up under it when it sits on the sofa? It's a girl. Does it sprawl back on the sofa and stretch out spraddle-legged? It's a boy.

Can it wear a nest of robins in its hair? Put it down as probably a female hippie. Can it wear a nest of robins in its beard as well as its hair? Undoubtedly a male hippie.

Does it wear rubber gloves while doing the dishes? Hi there, Mom! Does it do the dishes bare-handed and curse when it burns its fingers in the hot water? Poor Dad!

If it thinks money grows on trees, it's a her. If it loyally spends most of its life trying to find that kind of tree for her, it's a him.

If it bends over a coffin and lovingly kisses the dead lips therein, that's the widow. If it just stands wet-eyed by the coffin, guiltily whispering to its own soul, "I sure gave the old girl a rough time all the way," that's the widower.

Does it say after a business luncheon, "Gimme the check—this one's on me," it's a male executive. Does it say, "No, let's go dutch"—but really doesn't mean it at all—it's a career woman.

Of course, in an emergency, if you feel it is necessary to know the sex of another person and can't decide, you can take the direct approach and ask the person involved.

If you get your face slapped, it's a woman. If you start bleeding from a punch on the nose, it's a man.

In his own statement, Johnson mentioned a conversation with McNamara "some time ago" about the job and said McNamara expressed willingness to accept it if the President would consent. But Johnson did not indicate he had talked with McNamara since October or even told him he was being recommended.

This creates a bit of a new mystery. With the going of McNamara, who wanted a much more restrained kind of war in Vietnam then the Joint Chiefs of Staff thought necessary, it should be no surprise if now the war takes a tougher turn.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, Dec. 1, the 335th day of 1967. There are 30 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1913, the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes formed a single nation — Yugoslavia.

On this date: In 1824, a deadlock developed among four U.S. presidential candidates — John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, William H. Crawford and Henry Clay. Then the election was turned over to the House of Representatives.

In 1917, the British completed the take-over of German East Africa during World War I.

In 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt opened an inter-American conference at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

In 1942, gasoline was rationed in the United States during World War II.

In 1944, the World War II battle for the Saar Basin in Germany began.

In 1952, Adolfo Ruiz Cortines was inaugurated president of Mexico.

Ten years ago: It was announced at Cape Canaveral, Fla., that the United States would try to put its first earth satellite into orbit within a few days.

Five years ago: Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru rejected Communist China's proposals for a cease-fire and negotiations to end their border dispute.

One year ago: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin arrived in Paris for talks with France's President Charles de Gaulle.

Television Revolution

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television programming, which has been wedded to fixed formulas for 15 years, is undergoing a small-scale revolution because of the popularity of feature films this season.

That is the outlook as seen from the vantage point of Herbert S. Schlosser, who as West Coast program vice president for NBC is one of the handful of men who decide what will appear on the home screen.

From the days of 12-inch screens, the half-hour program, particularly the situation comedy, has been a staple of television. This season the half-hours, particularly the new ones, have been hurting because of the competition of six nights of feature films on the networks.

"There will still be room for the half-hour show," observed Schlosser, "but the trend is toward fewer of them."

"There will probably be more hour shows and 90-minute shows as well. We have even considered a two-hour series, but that is something that will need to be carefully planned."

Why have feature films proved so popular this season? "Because the audience has been getting a general run of bigger pictures," Schlosser theorized. "Many of them are only two years old, and that adds to the appeal."

"Also I believe the features are popular because the country is becoming more urban all the time. More people of higher income and upper middle-class watch them than most other programs. That helps make features attractive to sponsors."

Schlosser said NBC was the first to go into the field, beginning several years ago with Saturday Night at the Movies.

NBC has also pioneered with recently made movies contracted by Universal for first showing on TV. Eight were presented last season, two so far this year. All have scored as well or better than features that had already appeared in theaters.

Set Replacement Of Delta Queen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has cleared the way for a Cincinnati firm to replace the Delta Queen, a famous paddle-wheeler which operates on the Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee rivers.

The Senate sent to President Johnson a bill Wednesday which would increase available federal mortgage insurance from 75 to 87.5 per cent, sought by Greene Line, owner of the Delta Queen.

NOTICE BY PUBLICATION

The unknown heirs, devisees, legatees, executors and administrators of M. E. Swackhamer, deceased, will take notice that Marvin Swackhamer, Melvin Swackhamer, Jennie Conner, Richard A. Swackhamer, Lloyd B. Swackhamer, Bessie M. Perkins, Jane Douglass, Larry Swackhamer, Robert Swackhamer and Beverly Knisley, on the 31st day of October, 1967, filed their petition in the Common Pleas Court within and for the County of Pickaway, and State of Ohio, alleging that the will dated October 7, 1966, admitted to probate in said county, purporting to be the last will and testament of M. E. Swackhamer, deceased, is not, in fact the last will and testament of M. E. Swackhamer, deceased.

The prayer of said petition is for said purported last will and testament, dated October 7, 1966, to be found and adjudged not to be the last will and testament of M. E. Swackhamer, deceased, and that it be set aside and held for naught. The persons above mentioned will further take notice that they have been made parties, defendant to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 30th day of December, A. D. 1967.

9 Feet of Snow Nothing To Chardon, Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Quick now, how much is nine feet of snow?

Chances are it would fill your house -- floor to ceiling -- and leave a batch to spill into the basement.

Or, it's about the amount that normally falls in a season on the town of Chardon. That north-east Ohio community catches the brunt of storms moving down from the northwest across Lake Erie.

In fact, northeast Ohio stands head and shoulders above the rest of the state in catching the heavenly drudgery.

Marvin Miller, U.S. Weather Bureau climatologist here, explained that wind zipping across Lake Erie's warm water causes moisture to accumulate in the upper air.

"Once these winds reach land," he said, "the moist air is forced upward. The air is colder very rapidly as it comes into contact with cold air over land and condensation follows in the form of snow."

Chardon, a town of 3,500 population with an average annual snowfall of 106 inches. It practically matches snowflakes with Syracuse, N.Y. Syracuse gets an average of 107.1 inches of snow per winter and has the dubious honor of having the heaviest average snowfall of any major United States city.

Chardon can't hold a candle to Yakutat, Alaska, where 214 inches of snow falls in an average season, or Stampede Pass in Washington State where 443.5 inches of the fluffy stuff falls a year.

For records, how about the 1,000 inches that fell at Paradise Pass on Mt. Ranier, Wash., in the winter of 1955-56? It was the highest seasonal snowfall ever measured.

Miller noted that one inch of snow makes a major traffic tie-up. And it takes 10 inches of snow to equal one inch of rain.

Ashtabula, also in northeast Ohio, runs Chardon a poor second in snow averages with about 72 inches per year, while the town of Dorset averages 71 inches.

Down south, Higginsport, on the Ohio River above Cincinnati gets a mere 14 inches of snow in an average season.

The year 1950 was great for snow lovers. One storm during Nov. 24-27, 1950 dumped 28.7 inches of snow on Youngstown.

That was the same weekend when Michigan and Ohio State University played the famous "Blizzard Bowl," football game at Columbus. The capital city received 15 inches of snow from that storm and the mercury dipped to five degrees the day of the game. Maybe the Wolverines were better acclimated because they beat OSU 9-3.

During the storm, Steubenville laid claim to a state record 36.3 inches of snow in a 24-hour period.

Most season records in snowfalls came during the winter of 1909 - 10. Cleveland, where the average is 52 inches of snow, got 80.9 inches that winter. Columbus, with an average of 28 inches, received 67.8 inches and Cincinnati, which usually gets about 18 inches of snow, recorded 40.4 inches.

Chardon—the record holder—was smothered under 161.5 inches of snow during the winter of 1959-60. It was a record for the city.

The other end of the snow scale came in 1918 - 19 when Cleveland received only 8.8 inches, Cincinnati 1.6 inches, Columbus 3.2 inches, Toledo 12.2 inches (nine inches fell there in March 1919), and Sandusky got 7.6 inches of snow.

EUB Church Slates Fall Revival

Emmanuel Evangelical United Brethren Church, 1015 Georgia Road, will begin a fall revival service Sunday.

Russell E. Ford, formerly with Cadle Tabernacle will combine music, art and present the sermons for this meeting. His drawings are done with fluorescent chalk and black light.

Youth choir of the second Baptist Church will sing Sunday evening under the direction of Mrs. Charlotte Hill.

Tuesday evening the EUB Men's Gospel Singers Quartet will present the music portion of the program. The Ambassador's Quartet from the Circleville Bible College will sing Wednesday evening.

Also during the week the Triple Trio from Circleville High School will sing. Mrs. Charlotte Hill will present solos numbers, and the Campus Crusade for Christ Quartet from Ohio State University will also sing.

The revival will continue through Dec. 10 and will begin 7:30 each evening. The public is welcome to attend.

Felkey Wins Twirling Titles

Randy Felkey, drum major of Circleville Junior High Band, entered a World Twirling Assn. contest at Coshocton Sunday, winning two trophies.

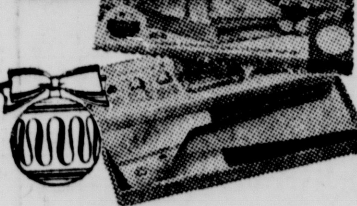

Felkey won first place awards in the military strutting and the solo twirling divisions. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Felkey, 543 S. Court St.

Other winners of awards in this area were:

Insurance Firms Change Policy

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The State Insurance Department and Wichita insurance agents have agreed on a plan to provide fire and extended coverage protection for property in areas where civil disturbances have occurred.

City officials said that after disturbances in North Wichita last October there were complaints of indiscriminate insurance cancellations.

The plan is designed to prevent such cancellations when they are based on location of property or size of the risk. It provides that Wichita insurance agencies would cooperate voluntarily in insuring properties at standard rates whenever possible and share the insurance burden in cases where the property is considered to be a high risk.

Pickaway County Women's Republican Club held a post Thanksgiving meeting Monday, with a 12 noon luncheon in the service center of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church, E. Main St., Circleville.

Table decorations and the food were in keeping with the Thanksgiving theme. "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," was sung before the luncheon.

The afternoon business session was conducted by Mrs. H. O. Caldwell. Mrs. Merton Tottle led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, followed by the singing of "America" accompanied by Mrs. Herbert E. Louis.

Reports were given by Mrs. Wilbur F. Gillespie and Mrs. J. B. Work, who also read communications. Poems were read by Mrs. Caldwell.

With "Current Issues" as the topic, a discussion period was held with members participating.

Wrapped Christmas gifts were brought by members for presentation to the Orient State School.

For the Christmas meeting, the group voted to furnish a roasted turkey, cranberries and ice cream. Guests are to bring a covered dish, salad, cake or cookies. This event will be 12 noon, Dec. 18.

Hostesses for November were Mrs. Herbert E. Louis, Mrs. Wilbur Gillespie, Mrs. Merton Tottle, Mrs. O. J. Towers, Mrs. Elsie Chester and Mrs. Russell Ebert.

Teenagers Like Room To Really Live In

Today's high schooler wants to live, study, and relax all over "my room." He wants it to be in essence of a college dorm. And it's a wise mother who sees the sense of this attitude, instead of resenting it. Many parents, who provide such settings and give their children livable, den-like rooms, not only keep the youngsters happy; they also find themselves blessed with more peace and quite through the rest of the house.

Expert Planners: to do this—and on a budget—take a few tips from dormitory planners, whose business it is to create such rooms.

First, make sure all furnishings are sturdy, simple and easy to keep clean. Admit that potato chips and soft drinks may be crunched or spilled. Select mar-proof furniture, easily washed fabrics, stain-resistant rugs or carpeting.

Make storage room for lots and lots of stuff. Squirreling and collection intensify during the teen years. Turn a whole wall into a closet with simple built-in shelving or module furniture units.

Provide oodles of bulletin board space. Burlap backed with plywood and framed with molding from the lumber yard can be bigger, brighter and just as serviceable as the more expensive cork boards.

By all means, eliminate the bedroom look. College dorms like storage-back studio couches. But for home rooms, there is a wide choice, such as sleepers with bolsters to match the spread. Convertible sofas, studio couches, single sleepers—any one of these can be used at home to give a "steady" rather than a "sleep" look.

When buying dual-purpose sleeping for a teen, don't skimp on either quality or size, the experts say. Purchasing agents point out that teens are much harder on furniture than are adults. Plopping down, twisting, lounging and snacking are not for dainty furnishings—beds in particular.

What is more, teens are bigger and heavier than in the past. Parents don't need insurance and other statistics to confirm these facts. So far this reason, today's single sleepers and dual purpose sofas come in the newer extra-long lengths.

Planners also report there is a definite relationship between the appearance of the room and the way it is maintained. Teens are much more quality-conscious than most parents realize. Cast-offs with worn fabrics or wobbly legs are an invitation to sloppy housekeeping, lead to a "who cares?" attitude.

On the other hand when a boy or girl has a room that is well furnished and attractive, then the youngster likes to keep it so and insists that visitors co-operate.

Request Assistance: Ask your teenager to help design his or her study-play-sleep den. You will find that boys and girls have very definite and often excellent ideas as to colors and styles. Shopping for furnishing will also provide valuable quality and budget training.

Once he has a place he is proud to call his own, you will find you have gained a living room—and usually, a grateful youngster as well.

Busy Session Held by Legion Auxiliary Unit

Unit 134 of the American Legion Auxiliary met Monday evening at the Post Home with a variety of business matters under discussion.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, chaplain. Mrs. Eleanor Price, president, conducted the business session.

Members agreed to make donations to the Gift for Yanks, Circleville Christmas Decoration Committee and to Care Inc.

Mrs. Roseann Stinson, child welfare chairman, reported on the Thanksgiving baskets given by the unit. She stated that donations for the Christmas baskets may be delivered to her home 215 E. Union St. by Dec. 15.

Mrs. Stenobe Stonerock reported the recent bake sale was a success and extended appreciation to all who helped, including the Third National Bank for the use of the building.

Mrs. Bess Simson, rehabilitation chairman, reported on the monthly visit to Ward 21-C at the Veteran's Hospital in Chillicothe, where refreshments were served to 36 patients. Those attending were Mrs. Stonerock, Mrs. Stinson, Miss Maggie Mavis, Mrs. Cecelia Hoffman, Mrs. June Darst, Mrs. Betty Woods, Mrs. Martha LaGrow, Mrs. Price and Mrs. Simson.

A Christmas party will be held for the veterans during the December visit. All donations from members for this party may be made by calling Mrs. Simson.

Mrs. Mary Stephens, poppy chairman, was requested by the Unit to order poppies for Poppy Day, May 25, 1968.

The Christmas gift ceremony will be held from 3 to 9:30 p. m. Dec. 6 and 7, when patients at the V.A. Hospital may choose a gift for his family. The tree lighting ceremony will be 7:30 p. m. Dec. 11, at the hospital.

Mrs. Dreisbach closed the meeting with prayer. Refreshments were served from a table decorated in the Christmas theme by Mrs. Price and Mrs. LaGrow.

Mrs. Marion's Class Sets Christmas Party

Members of Mrs. Marion's Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church will meet then the youngster likes to keep it so and insists that visitors co-operate.

A Christmas program and gift exchange will be held in the church parlor.

- What's the name of this meat cut?
- Pork arm steak.
- Where does it come from? How is it identified?
- It comes from the shoulder section of pork and is sometimes referred to as a shoulder steak. The cut is distinguished by a round bone or arm bone, which gives the cut its name. It is this bone which makes this steak different from that with the blade bone which is long and slender.
- How is it prepared?
- By braising or broiling. For braising, the pork arm steak is browned first in its own fat or in lard or drippings. The drippings are then poured off and a small amount of liquid is added. A tight cover and approximately 45 to 60 minutes cooking time are needed for steaks cut ¾ of an inch thick. Pork steaks may be broiled indoors or out, provided temperature is kept moderate. When cut ½ inch thick, the total broiling time is 35 to 40 minutes. Turn frequently to assure even browning.

Baking chicken breasts? A glass baking dish that is about 12 by 8 by 2 inches will hold three of the breasts (six pieces) split in half.

Computers Show Increase In Viet Areas Pacified

By BARRY KRAMER Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Two thirds of South Vietnam's 17 million people now live in secure areas controlled by the Saigon government, U.S. mission's computers say.

The U.S. Embassy today unveiled its new computerized Hamlet Evaluation System—or HES—and said the "secure" population has increased more than a million since last January.

Ambassador Robert W. Komer, who heads the American side of the pacification program, told a news conference that HES provides a detailed monthly check on the campaign for the allegiance of the South Vietnamese living in the country's 12,600 cities and hamlets.

A checklist on 18 major criteria is filled out on computer cards for each hamlet by the U.S. district adviser and put through computers in Saigon and Bangkok, he said, enabling the allies to get a good idea of where the "other war" stands.

In addition to hamlet security, the cards include information on such matters as schools available, development projects, health facilities and even whether the hamlet chief sleeps in the hamlet at night.

Pointing out that human evaluators weren't even sure how many hamlets were in South Vietnam before HES went into operation last January, Komer said the new system is "not even near perfect, but it's more objective, more systematic and it focuses on the key aspects of pacification."

"I think it's getting a pretty accurate picture," he added.

HES evaluates hamlets on an A-to-E scale, A hamlets being most secure, E the least.

Only 50—or 63 per cent—of South Vietnam's 12,600 hamlets can be evaluated. The rest are controlled by the Viet Cong. But Komer said population figures are more important than the number of hamlets considered secure because the hamlets vary in population from 50 to 20,000 persons. Saigon and other large cities are classed as a group of hamlets.

He said government-controlled hamlets tend to be larger and more prosperous since the government gives higher priority to more heavily populated areas.

Secure hamlets are those in the A, B and C categories. They now embrace 66.6 per cent of the population. Contested, or D and E hamlets account for 16.2 per cent of the population, while another 17.2 per cent lives under Viet Cong control, according to HES.

Tony Curtis, Wife Separate

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Actor Tony Curtis and wife Christine Kaufmann reportedly are separated today after almost five years of marriage.

Miss Kaufmann, a German movie beauty, was married to Curtis at the age of 18 on Feb. 8, 1963. She was quoted as saying "Yes, it's true," when asked by the Los Angeles Herald Examiner to confirm the separation.

Later neither she nor Curtis could be reached for comment. Publicists for both stars refused any comment.

Curtis, 41, was previously married for 11 years to actress Janet Leigh.

ance" but "no signs of revolt." The prospects, he adds, are "half gloomy, half hopeful."

The Rev. Andrew M. Greeley, senior study director of the University of Chicago's National Opinion Research Center, in analyzing recent data on trends in the church, foresees these developments:

- Popular participation in election of bishops.
- General Catholic acceptance of the use of birth control devices, resulting from a "credibility gap" that has developed about the church's teachings on sexual morality.
- A "sharp increase in the antieretical feelings" of Catholics, particularly among right-wing conservatives.
- A church organizational style similar to that of Protestantism.
- Greater flexibility in worship forms, under pressure from spreading experimental movements.
- An increase of the so-called "underground" new communities, outside traditional parish bounds, with recognition increasingly accorded them.
- An uncertain future for clerical celibacy, with a clear indication that the rule against marriage for priests will be abandoned soon.

—Continued tensions over doctrinal and devotional matters, but no mass apostasy or heresy.

"American Catholics are changing their minds about many things, but they are not leaving the Church," Father Greeley emphasizes. "Nor are they likely to in the foreseeable future."

Father Greeley, 39, has for five years headed the research center, gathering and assessing material on Catholic outlooks, particularly in the fields of education and youth.

In a new book, "The Catholic Experience: An Interpretation of the History of American Catholicism," published by Doubleday, he offers an intimate portrayal of the church's development.

He also lectures widely, and writes a column for Catholic newspapers. In a recent series of them, he drew together the various findings about church trends to deduce what will happen to the institution in the next 25 years.

DEAR ABBY: Every Thanksgiving my husband's boss who lives out of state sends us a huge bouquet of roses. The box they come in bears the name of a local florist, and their truck delivers them, so it's not as though these flowers have been shipped any great distance. Well, I have never seen sorrier flowers in all my life. It is getting to be an annual joke around here. They aren't even worth putting into a vase. I just open the box, and carry it right out to the trash.

Then I sit down and write a "thank you" note for the "beautiful" flowers. I told my husband this year I think we should tell his boss what kind of flowers he has been paying for. My husband says we should be quiet. What do you say?

MRS. M.J.L.

DEAR MRS. L.: I say a rose by any other name would smell as sweet. So would the deal you've been getting from your florist. By all means let the sender know the kind of flowers you have been receiving. He would appreciate it.

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a problem I can't discuss with anyone. Teddy, our 12-year-old son wants to take ballet! He is slim, graceful, a very beautiful boy and not very masculine.

He's been taking ballroom and tap since he was nine, but I never dreamed he'd become interested in ballet. His father will die. He's a rugged sportsman and has a five handicap in golf. Teddy has always been a rather delicate child and never cared much for sports so I thought dancing would be good exercise for him.

I am worried because you don't see many real he-men in ballet, and I do so want our Teddy to be a real he-man, marry some nice girl and have children. I would so love to have a little granddaughter. Teddy is our only child and I was so disappointed when he was not a girl, I wept for a week.

Should I discourage his taking ballet, or do you think it's too late?

LBJ Puts Out Word: Mac Not Forced Out

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both in public and in private, President Johnson is saying Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's shift to the presidency of the World Bank reflected McNamara's own desire—and that Johnson felt powerless to stand in his way.

Moreover, no matter what others may think, Johnson seems satisfied McNamara is content with the way the President handled the situation and will depart the Cabinet with only warm feelings and appreciation for Johnson's role in the matter.

The President portrays himself as the target of wholly unjustified charges, speculations and innuendos that somehow he eased McNamara out of the federal government for political or other purposes.

In the Chief Executive's view, the Pentagon boss will be shifting from first base to shortstop when he resigns to become president of the 107-nation bank.

And Johnson insists that, had the decision been the President's alone, McNamara would have remained on first base indefinitely.

TEDDY'S MOTHER

If some baseball fans feel the shortstop has more status than the first baseman, perhaps it might be well noted Johnson was a first baseman in his younger days.

McNamara has been approached about two dozen or more jobs in recent years—one reportedly offering $1 million a year—and rejected all of them. Johnson finds this convincing evidence the Pentagon boss really had his heart set on the World Bank position, one paying $40,000 a year but presumably offering greater opportunities for public service.

The President has often said he would not stand in the way of any appointee who felt the grass was greener elsewhere. He has cited the case of one of his closest friends, Jack Valenti, who quit to become the $150,000-a-year president of the Motion Picture Association of America, and noted that McGeorge Bundy, his original national security adviser, departed to become Ford Foundation president.

In Johnson's view, he could no more thwart McNamara's desires for other employment than he did in the Valenti and Bundy cases.

At the same time, he wants no one to think that he encouraged McNamara's decision or even hastened it.

If the President were to draw up his own chronology of how the McNamara saga progressed, it doubtless would go very much like this:

—April 18: George D. Woods, current president of the World Bank, invited McNamara to lunch, saying it was a personal matter. McNamara accepted the invitation and was sounded out by Woods, whose term was expiring Dec. 31, of this year on whether the defense secretary might be interested in the job.

McNamara subsequently reported this conversation to the President and, while expressing interest in the bank job, made it clear he would remain in the Cabinet as long as Johnson felt necessary.

—August: With no firm successor lined up, Woods worked out an arrangement to remain as bank president until Dec. 31, 1968, with a provision that he would leave earlier if a successor were found.

—September: Directors of the bank worked out an agreement that the United States would propose, by Oct. 31, one or more candidates for the bank presidency.

—Mid-October: Johnson told McNamara that candidates would have to be proposed soon and inquired if the Cabinet member was still interested. McNamara said he was, repeating he would not leave the Pentagon until Johnson felt he could release him.

—Nov. 8: Woods, with the Oct. 31 deadline past, sought a meeting with McNamara. The secretary had a busy schedule and they arranged to confer in McNamara's limousine, which was bound for the White House. Woods reminded his host-on-wheels that time was running out.

Nov. 13: Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler met with Johnson, who told him McNamara is his only choice for the bank post.

Nov. 16: Fowler met at the Treasury with Woods and Livingston Merchant, U.S. director of the bank, and all agreed McNamara is their man.

Nov. 19 or 20: Woods phoned McNamara and told him Johnson backed the McNamara candidacy and that his name would be placed in nomination Nov. 21.

Nov. 21: Merchant proposed McNamara to the World Bank directors.

Nov. 27: News of the McNamara candidacy started leaking to newsmen in foreign capitals.

McNamara and Johnson conferred about the matter and the defense secretary said he would take a "no comment" stance.

Nov. 29: Directors of the bank formally offered McNamara the presidency.

NEW YORK (AP) — Weighing the evidence on the horizon, a noted Roman Catholic sociologist has projected the coming shape of that church in America. And he says the results add up to change "with a vengeance" but "no signs of revolt."

Unscheduled Item Intrudes in Class

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Officer Clifford Walker presented an unscheduled lesson in auto safety at the city traffic school which he has conducted for 12 years. He heard a pounding on the door at Lincoln High School and outside found a woman with an unconscious child in her arms. Rosalie Vaughn, 30, had been waiting in a station wagon with her four children for her husband, Leonard, to finish class. She turned on the heater to ward off the chill and noticed the youngsters dropping off to sleep. She became alarmed when one vomited.

If someone asked you which you would rather have for a pet, a leopard or a pussycat—you would probably think they were crazy. Why? Because to you a pussycat is a soft cuddly animal — a leopard, a ferocious beast of prey. But suppose when you were small, someone had taught you that both animals are similar? Then, the question would not seem absurd.

So much depends upon how we've been taught. A mistaken interpretation of a particular word can distort our thinking. Take, for instance, the word Christian. Some people think of a Christian as a fanatical do-gooder. Others see him as a hypocrite, praying loudly on Sundays while ignoring religious responsibility. Still others, know of the spiritual riches to be found in following the examples of Jesus.

Your church teaches and interprets God's truths. The spiritual values you learn there can illuminate your entire life.

CAT OR KITTEN?

If someone asked you which you would rather have for a pet, a leopard or a pussycat—you would probably think they were crazy. Why? Because to you a pussycat is a soft cuddly animal — a leopard, a ferocious beast of prey. But suppose when you were small, someone had taught you that both animals are similar? Then, the question would not seem absurd.

So much depends upon how we've been taught. A mistaken interpretation of a particular word can distort our thinking. Take, for instance, the word Christian. Some people think of a Christian as a fanatical do-gooder. Others see him as a hypocrite, praying loudly on Sundays while ignoring religious responsibility. Still others, know of the spiritual riches to be found in following the examples of Jesus.

Your church teaches and interprets God's truths. The spiritual values you learn there can illuminate your entire life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
. . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Gym Classes At St. Joseph

Boys of St. Joseph's school grades seven and eight now have gym classes Tuesdays and Thursdays thanks to the cooperation of the public school system.

Mr. Loren Straight, the seventh grade teacher, is instructor and coach.

The basketball team, named the "Spartans", includes Tim Haley, Bede Abbott, Mike Chelkowski, Richard Mogan, Allen Trego, Donald Dean, Donald Nichols, Edward Riley, Donald Goeller and Mark Hang. James Goode is the manager.

Mr. Edward Dean has made it possible for the boys to improve their basketball techniques by providing new basketball hoops and banking boards for the playground.

Link 20 Youths In Brazen Thefts

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP) — Police Chief Jim Jones says he has linked 20 local teen-agers with a four-year-long string of minor thefts.

Among the items in the loot he uncovered: two of his missing police jackets, complete with badges.

Jones said the youngsters told him the chief's badges were prime items in trades they made for other stolen goods.

Lone Survivor Of Freighter Recalls Horror

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — The lone survivor of the ill-fated freighter Daniel J. Morrell will never forget the terror-filled night of a year ago. "How lucky I am," recalled Dennis Hale, 27, of Ashtabula in an interview. "I lost a lot of good friends. It was a terrible thing..."

On that tragic night, 28 of Hale's shipmates perished when the Morrell, a 605-foot ore carrier, cracked in two and sank near Harbor Beach, Mich., in storm-tossed Lake Huron.

Somehow, Hale managed to survive 36 hours clinging to a pontoon raft bobbing in the towering waves. His companions were three crewmen who died from exposure to the icy winds during the first few hours.

During the height of the storm, winds of up to 60 miles an hour lashed the lake, whipping waves up to 25 feet high. Hale said he still gets edgy in storms. And he is not going back to the maritime trades.

"Once was enough," he declared. "There was a guy here not so long ago who went through a storm and his boat capsized. He survived and went back out again. The second time he was caught and didn't make it."

On the first anniversary of the tragedy Wednesday, Hale planned to attend mass in memory of the men of the Morrell who were not as lucky as he.

Hale is attending school to train for machinist work in a program arranged through the Ohio Vocational Rehabilitation Department.

He said he is feeling good. He is walking now, but his feet are still bothering him. He suffered severe frostbite and lost 25 pounds during his ordeal.

A suit for $500,000 in damages is still pending against the Bethlehem Steel Corp., which owned the Morrell. It is awaiting the official report of a Coast Guard board of inquiry, which Hale said is expected shortly after the first of the year.

GRIM INSCRIPTION—Scrawled on the side of this GI's helmet, the inscription, "Hill 875, The Smell of Death, Nov. 20-21-22," eloquently tells the story of the taking of the strategic hill at Dak To, South Vietnam. Nearly 300 Americans were killed storming the hill.

Gym Classes At St. Joseph

Boys of St. Joseph's school grades seven and eight now have gym classes Tuesdays and Thursdays thanks to the cooperation of the public school system.

Mr. Loren Straight, the seventh grade teacher, is instructor and coach.

The basketball team, named the "Spartans", includes Tim Haley, Bede Abbott, Mike Chelickowsky, Richard Mogan, Allen Trego, Donald Dean, Donald Nichols, Edward Riley, Donald Goeller and Mark Hang. James Goode is the manager.

Mr. Edward Dean has made it possible for the boys to improve their basketball techniques by providing new basketball hoops and banking boards for the playground.

Link 20 Youths In Brazen Thefts

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP) — Police Chief Jim Jones says he has linked 20 local teen-agers with a four-year-long string of minor thefts.

Among the items in the loot he uncovered: two of his missing police jackets, complete with badges.

Jones said the youngsters told him the chief's badges were prime items in trades they made for other stolen goods.

Lone Survivor Of Freighter Recalls Horror

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — The lone survivor of the ill-fated freighter Daniel J. Morrell will never forget the terror-filled night of a year ago.

"How lucky I am," recalled Dennis Hale, 27, of Ashtabula in an interview. "I lost a lot of good friends. It was a terrible thing..."

On that tragic night, 28 of Hale's shipmates perished when the Morrell, a 605-foot ore carrier, cracked in two and sank near Harbor Beach, Mich., in storm-tossed Lake Huron.

Somehow, Hale managed to survive 36 hours clinging to a pontoon raft bobbing in the towering waves. His companions were three crewmen who died from exposure to the icy winds during the first few hours.

During the height of the storm, winds of up to 60 miles an hour lashed the lake, whipping waves up to 25 feet high.

Hale said he still gets edgy in storms. And he is not going back to the maritime trades. "Once was enough," he declared. "There was a guy here not so long ago who went through a storm and his boat capsized. He survived and went back out again. The second time he was caught and didn't make it."

On the first anniversary of the tragedy Wednesday, Hale planned to attend mass in memory of the men of the Morrell who were not as lucky as he.

Hale is attending school to train for machinist work in a program arranged through the Ohio Vocational Rehabilitation Department.

He said he is feeling good. He is walking now, but his feet are still bothering him. He suffered severe frostbite and lost 25 pounds during his ordeal.

A suit for $500,000 in damages is still pending against the Bethlehem Steel Corp., which owned the Morrell. It is awaiting the official report of a Coast Guard board of inquiry, which Hale said is expected shortly after the first of the year.

GRIM INSCRIPTION—Scrawled on the side of this GI's helmet, the inscription, "Hill 875, The Smell of Death, Nov. 20-21-22," eloquently tells the story of the taking of the strategic hill at Dak To, South Vietnam. Nearly 300 Americans were killed storming the hill.

LANGUAGE LAB IN USE — Miss Mary Walters, Spanish instructor at CHS, uses the language lab in her classes. Here she listens to translations by two students.

Languages Taught by Use of Lab

By SHARON JOHNSON

Language lab is a specially equipped room for students taking foreign languages. Students use it for oral drills and proper pronunciation.

The lab consists of thirty units, each equipped with ear phones. Each unit can be used individually allowing the teacher to hear oral recitation or to talk to an individual student. Records and tapes of lessons are also used in lab. Six of the units have recording machines, in which students may record their voices.

Language teachers feel that an improvement in the use of the lab could be gained through adding an extra two periods of lab work a week.

Prayer Rule Effect at CHS

By DEBBIE STONEROCK

In June 1962 the United States Supreme Court declared prayer in public schools unconstitutional. Since that time there has been a steady stream of controversy from students as well as various high school administrators.

CHS is no exception. The following are comments from various students:

Patty Glitt—"I think it's up to the person himself and I also think it is all right in school."

Marion Brehmer—"Prayer should not be forced on anyone, nor shouldn't be denied to anyone. I believe if someone wanted to pray in school let him go right ahead."

Dan Thompson—"Prayers in school should not be compulsory, yet I think they should be permitted. Our parents pay for our attending school this gives us the right."

Sue McGuild—"Since the school is a public place I think a person should be able to do as he wants, and pray where and when he wants."

Susan Crites—"Prayer is a very individual matter and it is the right of every citizen to pray where he wants to as long as everyone is not forced to pray, I think it is perfectly all right in our public schools."

Most of the students agree that it should be left to the individual himself.

Report cards for the second six weeks will be distributed Wednesday.

Mrs. Martha Wiggins' English classes have completed their projects based on the "King and I."

Smoking Hurts Eventually

By DARYL BROWN

Most adult smokers started when they were teenagers. Their reasons were probably very much the same ones that today's teenagers give. They want to feel more adult. They wish recognition as an individual and this, they think, gives it to them. They don't want to be associated with the "sissies" who don't smoke. The rest of the crowd is doing it and they want to join in.

Before they are 60, over a million of that crowd will die from cigarette smoking. If you joined in with the crowd when they started chances are you're still smoking, and you will get to join in with them, then, too. Many more who will not die of cigarette smoking will incur some other kind of physical deterioration from it. If you smoke and you want good health you're bucking the odds.

Most people who smoke seem to have the attitude that since it doesn't hurt them immediately, it won't hurt them at all. That's like a man pulling the pin of a grenade and saying, "See there, nothing happened. I didn't get hurt." Of course a little later something did happen. The man found out he was wrong but he found out too late.

Take that little "grenade" of yours and give it a toss. The only life you save may be your own, but that is enough.

Teacher Feature

By JACK CARLE and SUSAN DEMJEN

Mr. Wallace Higgins, world history teacher, at CHS, is one of the most respected, well-known and versatile men at CHS. He resides at 226 E. Main St. with his wife, Carol, and daughter, Cathleen.

MR. WALLACE HIGGINS

Mr. Higgins was graduated from Ohio University, majoring in history and government. He minored in art and English. Mr. Higgins teaches world history by personalizing the subject. "It deals with individuals who are human beings like the students." Mr. Higgins also tries to simulate the past and present problems.

During his 12 years here, he has been Junior class advisor for six years and is the advisor to the National Honor Society presently.

Community work also enters the life of Mr. Higgins. He has just finished helping conduct the successful campaign for mayor-elect Richard Gerhardt. Mr. Higgins also is an elder of the Presbyterian Church where he occasionally leads the service.

Mr. Higgins taught art for one-half year in Chillicothe before coming to Circleville. He is an honorary member of the Drama Club, designing play sets and other artistic items for CHS.

In part of his spare time, Mr. Higgins paints. He has painted a picture of one character from each historical era down through the Renaissance. These pictures are hanging in his room at school.

A noticeable addition to Mr. Higgins is a mustache. He said he had one when he first began teaching here and he feels that growing one is "a spur of the minute" thing. He also explains, "It's that much less to shave every morning."

In reply to being told he was this week's featured teacher, he commented, "Very odd."

Ty Ankrom and Beth Spires Selected Students of Week

By DON COZAD and GREG WHITE

Ty Ankrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ankrom, 415 N. Pickaway St., is the Red and Black's male feature student of the week.

Ty, member at Calvary EUB Church is enrolled in the college preparatory course. "I feel the course gets you ready for college with all the homework teachers assign. If you are going to college, this will help a lot."

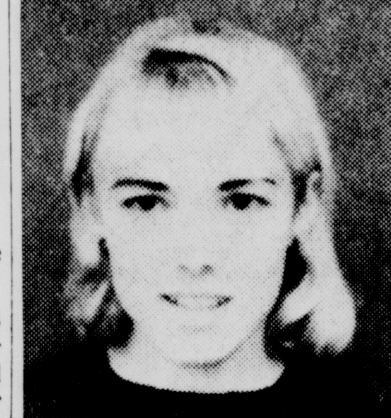

Ty plans to go to either Miami University or Bowling Green State University after graduation.

He is a member of Stooze Club and participated in cross-country and basketball. He plans to play baseball this spring.

When asked his opinion of CHS he said, "I think that it's a real great school with a lot of crazy nuts in it, like me."

Creative writing is one of the many interests of Beth Spires, another student of the week. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spires, 402 E. Main St. Beth, a sophomore, is enrolled in the college prep course.

BETH SPIRES

Her favorite subject is English. After graduation she plans to attend Cornell University in New York State. When she completes college she hopes to make a career of writing short stories.

Among her other interests are writing poems, playing tennis and dancing.

She is an active member of the GAA, Curtain Callers, Annual Staff and EMS.

Dramatics class has put on several plays in class.

Miss Diane Dick's sophomore phys. ed. classes are participating in gymnastics.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

Jeff Steele Is Letterman In Basketball

By RICK CONGROVE

Jeff Steele, a 6-2 forward, is one of two returning lettermen on the CHS basketball team. Jeff is one of the finest outside shooters in this part of Ohio. He is not only a fine shooter but he is a tough one to keep off the boards.

Averaging 14 points and 11 rebounds per game last year, Jeff also had the highest free throw percentage in the league.

Not only is Jeff a great leader out on the basketball floor, but he is also an outstanding leader of his class. Jeff is the senior class president and is the projects chairman of the Stooze Club.

Although the young CHS basketball team has gotten off to a slow start with two losses, they show sparks of becoming a real fine team, the latter part of the season. Jeff feels that every-one was a little tight last Friday and Saturday night because of inexperience. But he still has high hopes for this year's team.

Pontious Now In Fourth Year Of Wrestling

By MIKE SMITH

Bruce "Tony" Pontious is this week's honored wrestler. He is in his fourth year of wrestling and has lettered two years. Bruce, a 17 year old senior in the college prep course, lives at 122 S. Pickaway St. with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pontious.

BRUCE PONTIOUS

Bruce belongs to Key Club at school and is president of the Youth Fellowship at the First Methodist Church. After graduation Bruce plans to go to the University of Kentucky.

Aside from wrestling, Bruce was an active member on the football team. Bruce feels that this year's wrestling team "is the strongest that CHS has had and has the best potential of being all-around champs."

If you can't find a way, make it.

A good disposition will help your position.

Club Notes

DRAMA CLUB

CHS Drama Club made $175 by riding in parades over the past weekend.

KEY CLUB

CHS Key Club gave a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family and helped decorate the poles downtown. They also passed out prayer cards over town. Tonight the Key Club is sponsoring a pancake supper, before the game in the high school cafeteria.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Science Club members visited Ralston Furnia Tuesday evening.

STOOGE

Stooze club will sponsor a dance tonight featuring the "Shandalls." Stooze members are providing programs for all home basketball games.

SOS

Senior SOS girls gave a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family. Sunday afternoon the club attended the piano and organ recital of Patty Schleich an SOS member.

DECA

Senior DECA members are planning a Christmas party for all Distributive Education II class members. The next Senior DECA meeting will be held Dec. 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the High School. Christmas projects include the sale of Christmas stockings which they are making, chocolate polly-wogs, various stocking stuffers. Classes are working on various types of newspaper ads for this season of the year. Junior and Senior D.E. members attended the Shoplifting Prevention Course held at the Senior High School Cafeteria last Tuesday.

Junior DECA members are selling Christmas scented candles, cookies and CHS calendars and portfolios. The next Junior DECA meeting will be held Dec. 13 at 3:30 p.m. at the High School. The Junior DECA members are planning a Christmas party with the Chillicothe DECA.

A moment later, all the children were yawning and rubbing their fists in their eyes. Before anyone quite knew what was happening, the children were sound asleep on their feet. Mothers spoke sharply. They shook the children. They said, "For goodness sake! It's only midday. No time for napping. You'll never sleep tonight."

But it did not good. Fathers lifted the sleeping children and carried them home to their beds. All day the children slept. And all night and all the next day. Men blew horns and pounded drums and paraded in the village square making enough noise to shake the houses. Mothers banged pots and pans in the kitchens and called, "Come to dinner—we're having all your favorite things."

Fathers leaned over the sleeping children and promised to play ball or go sledding or climb trees with them if only they would wake. But the children slept on. Meanwhile, Claus worked in his woodcarving shop. He made a special toy for each child. A clown. A doll with moving arms and legs. A tiny horse-drawn cart. A music box. A sled. A doll house. A checker game. A set of ten pins. Something for everyone.

While he worked Mrs. Claus was in the kitchen mixing and baking and loading the pantry shelves with gingerbread men and raisin cakes and chocolate tortes and coconut patties and pecan pies.

"When the children wake," they told each other, "we'll feast and give gifts and make merry. What a time we will have!" But the children would not wake and, finally, everyone knew a charm had been laid on them and they were going to sleep perhaps forever.

"It all began when the purse was opened," moaned Claus. "It is my fault. I promised never to open it."

Set Hearing Date On County Strike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Judge Myron B. Gessaman has set a hearing for Monday on contempt of court citations against employees on strike against the Franklin County Home and Alum Crest Hospital.

The judge had declined to hear specific charges or take action against union officers because the striking employees had not been properly notified of the charges against them.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Children did not always celebrate Christmas as they do today. This is the story of how Santa Claus came to be. Long ago a mysterious purse was found in the home of a toymaker named Claus. When the purse was opened a strange vapor escaped.

CHAPTER TWO THE CURSE

THE MYSTERIOUS warm breeze swept through Claus' house, out the door, up the chimney and through the window cracks.

Now it was gone. The villagers grinned self-consciously. They were ashamed to have been so afraid. They stared at the purse. Where before it had been heavy and bulging it was now flat and empty.

"You shouldn't have opened it!" Claus groaned. "I promised I'd never open it. Now who knows what will happen."

"Nothing will happen," said an elder nervously. "It was all a joke!"

"There never was anything in it!" scoffed an old man. "No gold. No nothing," said another.

They laughed and shook their fingers at Claus for having fooled them. "What a prankster!" they cried. "Always having fun."

A little boy standing at Claus' side opened his mouth wide, wider, wider and gave a huge yawn. A little girl next to him did the same. She said, "I'm sleepy!" A second boy said, "I've NEVER been so sleepy!"

"I can't keep my eyes open," complained another child. "I want to go to bed," sighed another.

But the children were yawning and rubbing their fists in their eyes. Before anyone quite knew what was happening, the children were sound asleep on their feet. Mothers spoke sharply. They shook the children. They said, "For goodness sake! It's only midday. No time for napping. You'll never sleep tonight."

But the children slept on. All day the children slept. And all night and all the next day. Men blew horns and pounded drums and paraded in the village square making enough noise to shake the houses. Mothers banged pots and pans in the kitchens and called, "Come to dinner—we're having all your favorite things."

Fathers leaned over the sleeping children and promised to play ball or go sledding or climb trees with them if only they would wake. But the children slept on. yourself," said Mrs. Claus gently. "It was not you who opened it."

"It comes to the same thing," said Claus. "The purse was in my keeping." He picked up the old black bag and shook it angrily.

"I must find a way to break the curse!" he swore. "I will not rest until I do!" He flung the bag against the wall. The clasp broke open and a small brass key fell out and skittered across the floor. Tomorrow: Claus Begins a Trip

LANGUAGE LAB IN USE — Miss Mary Walters, Spanish instructor at CHS, uses the language lab in her classes. Here she listens to translations by two students.

Languages Taught by Use of Lab

By SHARON JOHNSON

Language lab is a specially equipped room for students taking foreign languages. Students use it for oral drills and proper pronunciation.

The lab consists of thirty units, each equipped with ear phones. Each unit can be used individually allowing the teacher to hear oral recitation or to talk to an individual student. Records and tapes of lessons are also used in lab. Six of the units have recording machines, in which students may record their voices.

Language teachers feel that an improvement in the use of the lab could be gained through adding an extra two periods of lab work a week.

Prayer Rule Effect at CHS

By DEBBIE STONEROCK

In June 1962 the United States Supreme Court declared prayer in public schools unconstitutional. Since that time there has been a steady stream of controversy from students as well as various high school administrators.

CHS is no exception. The following are comments from various students:

Patty Glitt—"I think it's up to the person himself and I also think it is all right in school."

Marion Brehrer—"Prayer should not be forced on anyone, nor should it be denied to anyone. I believe if someone wanted to pray in school let him go right ahead."

Dan Thompson—"Prayers in school should not be compulsory, yet I think they should be permitted. Our parents pay for our attending school this gives us the right."

Sue McGuild—"Since the school is a public place I think a person should be able to do as he wants, and pray where and when he wants."

Susan Crites—"Prayer is a very individual matter and it is the right of every citizen to pray where he wants to as long as everyone is not forced to pray, I think it is perfectly all right in our public schools."

Most of the students agree that it should be left to the individual himself.

Report cards for the second six weeks will be distributed Wednesday.

Mrs. Martha Wiggins' English classes have completed their projects based on the "King and I."

Smoking Hurts Eventually

By DARYL BROWN

Most adult smokers started when they were teenagers. Their reasons were probably very much the same ones that today's teenagers give. They want to feel more adult. They wish recognition as an individual and this, they think, gives it to them. They don't want to be associated with the "sissies" who don't smoke. The rest of the crowd is doing it and they want to join in.

Before they are 65, over a million of that crowd will die from cigarette smoking. If you joined in with the crowd when they started chances are you're still smoking, and you will get to join in with them, then, too. Many more who will not die of cigarette smoking will incur some other kind of physical deterioration from it. If you smoke and you want good health you're bucking the odds.

Most people who smoke seem to have the attitude that since it doesn't hurt them immediately, it won't hurt them at all. That's like a man pulling the pin of a grenade and saying, "See there, nothing happened. I didn't get hurt." Of course a little later something did happen. The man found out he was wrong but he found out too late.

Take that little "grenade" of yours and give it a toss. The only life you save may be your own, but that is enough.

Teacher Feature

By JACK CARLE and SUSAN DEMJEN

Mr. Wallace Higgins, world history teacher, at CHS, is one of the most respected, well-known and versatile men at CHS. He resides at 226 E. Main St. with his wife, Carol, and daughter, Cathleen.

MR. WALLACE HIGGINS

Mr. Higgins was graduated from Ohio University, majoring in history and government. He minored in art and English. Mr. Higgins teaches world history by personalizing the subject. "It deals with individuals who are human beings like the students." Mr. Higgins also tries to simulate the past and present problems.

During his 12 years here, he has been Junior class advisor for six years and is the advisor to the National Honor Society presently.

Community work also enters the life of Mr. Higgins. He has just finished helping conduct the successful campaign for mayor-elect Richard Gerhardt. Mr. Higgins also is an elder of the Presbyterian Church where he occasionally leads the service.

Mr. Higgins taught art for one-half year in Chillicothe before coming to Circleville. He is an honorary member of the Drama Club, designing play sets and other artistic items for CHS.

In part of his spare time, Mr. Higgins paints. He has painted a picture of one character from each historical era down through the Renaissance. These pictures are hanging in his room at school.

A noticeable addition to Mr. Higgins is a mustache. He said he had one when he first began teaching here and he feels that growing one is "a spur of the minute" thing. He also explains, "It's that much less to shave every morning."

In reply to being told he was this week's featured teacher, he commented, "Very odd."

Ty Ankrom and Beth Spires Selected Students of Week

By DON COZAD and GREG WHITE

Ty Ankrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ankrom, 415 N. Pickaway St., is the Red and Black's male feature student of the week.

Ty, member at Calvary EUB Church is enrolled in the college preparatory course. "I feel the course gets you ready for college with all the homework teachers assign. If you are going to college, this will help a lot."

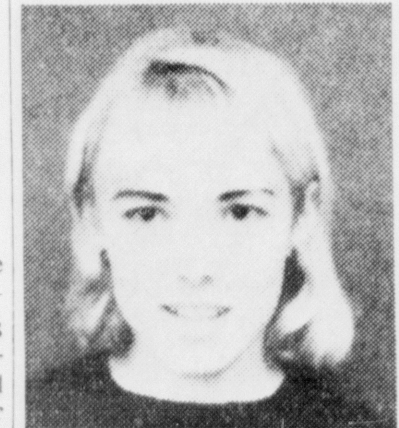

Ty plans to go to either Miami University or Bowling Green State University after graduation.

He is a member of Stogie Club and participated in cross-country and basketball. He plans to play baseball this spring.

When asked his opinion of CHS he said, "I think that it's a real great school with a lot of crazy nuts in it, like me."

Creative writing is one of the many interests of Beth Spires, another student of the week. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spires, 402 E. Main St. Beth, a sophomore, is enrolled in the college prep course.

BETH SPIRES

Her favorite subject is English. After graduation she plans to attend Cornell University in New York State. When she completes college she hopes to make a career of writing short stories.

Among her other interests are writing poems, playing tennis and dancing.

She is an active member of the GAA, Curtain Callers, Annual Staff and EMS.

Dramatics class has put on several plays in class.

Miss Diane Dick's sophomore phys. ed. classes are participating in gymnastics.

Jeff Steele Is Letterman In Basketball

By RICK CONGROVE

Jeff Steele, a 6-2 forward, is one of two returning lettermen on the CHS basketball team. Jeff is one of the finest outside shooters in this part of Ohio. He is not only a fine shooter but he is a tough one to keep off the boards.

Averaging 14 points and 11 rebounds per game last year, Jeff also had the highest free throw percentage in the league.

Not only is Jeff a great leader out on the basketball floor, but he is also an outstanding leader of his class. Jeff is the senior class president and is the projects chairman of the Stogie Club.

Although the young CHS basketball team has gotten off to a slow start with two losses, they show sparks of becoming a real fine team, the latter part of the season. Jeff feels that everyone was a little tight last Friday and Saturday night because of inexperience. But he still has high hopes for this year's team.

Pontious Now In Fourth Year Of Wrestling

By MIKE SMITH

Bruce "Tony" Pontious is this week's honored wrestler. He is in his fourth year of wrestling and has lettered two years. Bruce, a 17 year old senior in the college prep course, lives at 122 S. Pickaway St. with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pontious.

BRUCE PONTIOUS

Bruce belongs to Key Club at school and is president of the Youth Fellowship at the First Methodist Church. After graduation Bruce plans to go to the University of Kentucky.

Aside from wrestling, Bruce was an active member on the football team. Bruce feels that this year's wrestling team "is the strongest that CHS has had and has the best potential of being all-around champs."

A moment later, all the children were yawning and rubbing their fists in their eyes. Before anyone quite knew what was happening, the children were sound asleep on their feet.

Mothers spoke sharply. They shook the children. They said, "For goodness sake! It's only midday. No time for napping. You'll never sleep tonight."

But it did no good. Fathers lifted the sleeping children and carried them home to their beds.

All day the children slept. And all night and all the next day. Men blew horns and pounded drums and paraded in the village square making enough noise to shake the houses. Mothers banged pots and pans in the kitchens and called, "Come to dinner — we're having all your favorite things." Fathers leaned over the sleeping children and promised to play ball or go sledding or climb trees with them if only they would wake.

But the children slept on. Meanwhile, Claus worked in his woodcarving shop. He made a special toy for each child. A clown. A doll with moving arms and legs. A tiny horse-drawn cart. A music box. A sled. A doll house. A checker game. A set of ten pins. Something for everyone.

While he worked Mrs. Claus was in the kitchen mixing and baking and loading the pantry shelves with gingerbread men and raisin cakes and chocolate tortes and coconut patties and pecan pies.

"When the children wake," they told each other, "we'll feast and give gifts and make merry. What a time we will have!"

But the children would not wake and, finally, everyone knew a charm had been laid on them and they were going to sleep perhaps forever.

"It all began when the purse was opened," moaned Claus. "It is my fault. I promised never to open it."

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Children did not always celebrate Christmas as they do today. This is the story of how Santa Claus came to be. Long ago a mysterious purse was found in the home of a toymaker named Claus. When the purse was opened a strange vapor escaped.

CHAPTER TWO

THE CURSE

THE MYSTERIOUS warm breeze swept through Claus' house, out the door, up the chimney and through the window cracks.

Now it was gone. The villagers grinned self-consciously. They were ashamed to have been so afraid. They stared at the purse. Where before it had been heavy and bulging it was now flat and empty.

"You shouldn't have opened it!" Claus groaned. "I promised I'd never open it. Now who knows what will happen?"

"Nothing will happen," said an elder nervously. "It was all a joke!"

"There never was anything in it!" scoffed an old man. "No gold. No nothing," said another.

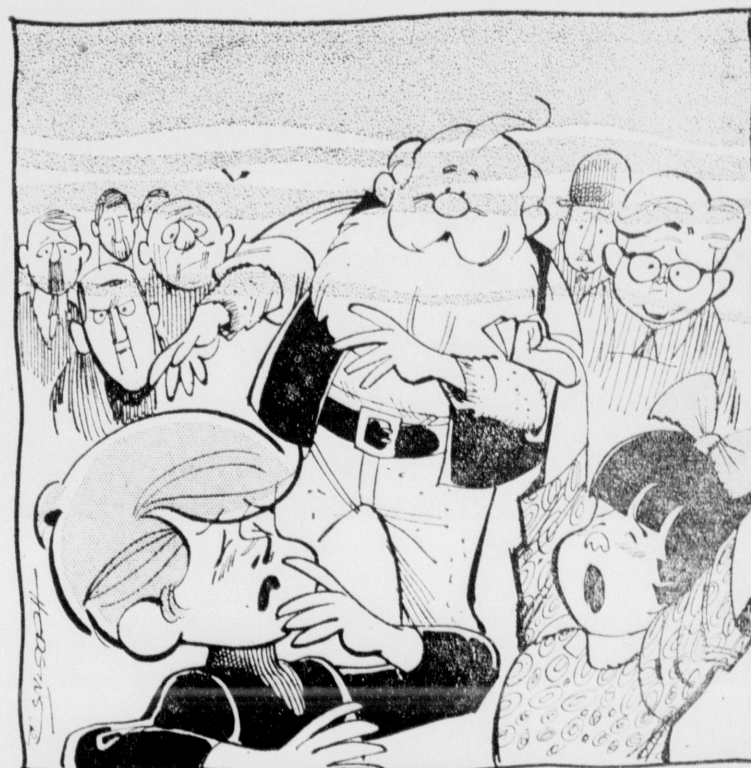

They laughed and shook their fingers at Claus for having fooled them. "What a prankster!" they cried. "Always having fun."

A little boy standing at Claus' side opened his mouth wide, wider, wider and gave a huge yawn. A little girl next to him did the same. She said, "I'm sleepy!" A second boy said, "I've NEVER been so sleepy!"

"I can't keep my eyes open," complained another child. "I want to go to bed," sighed another.

Mrs. Claus said, "I can't keep my eyes open!" "I must find a way to break the curse!" he swore. "I will not rest until I do!"

He flung the bag against the wall. The clasp broke open and a small brass key fell out and skittered across the floor. Tomorrow: Claus Begins a Trip yourself," said Mrs. Claus gently. "It was not you who opened it."

"It comes to the same thing," said Claus. "The purse was in my keeping." He picked up the old black bag and shook it angrily.

Circleville Frosh, Jr. High Cagers Split Doubleheader

The Circleville junior high and freshmen cage teams split a twin bill with Lancaster Stansbury Thursday.

The local junior high quintet won, 44-39, while the frosh lost, 32-37.

Paced by Don Valentine, the Junior High cagers got off to a roaring start in their first game, scoring 19 points in the first six minutes of play. Valentine made seven buckets from the field and added five at the charity stripe for a total of 19 and game scoring laurels.

The score at halftime of the tilt found the little Tigers in the lead, 31-20. Dave Truex scored all 12 of his points in the first half.

The Stansbury squad switched from a man to man defense in the first half to a zone in the second half, and Circleville experienced a little more trouble scoring against the zone, notching only 13 points in the final two periods while the losers scored 19.

Other Tiger cagers breaking into the scoring column were Kent Wolfe with nine, Mike Hamrick and Jim Neal with two each.

The Circleville junior high connected on 45 per cent of their field goal attempts and 38 per cent of their foul shots.

The frosh trailed 14-5 at the end of the first quarter, 22-12 at halftime and 29-24 as the third period began. They pulled within 32-27 at the end of the fourth quarter.

Game Scheduled At High School

The Circleville-Wilmington basketball game tonight will be played at the high school it was emphasized by Don Poling, faculty director.

Presently there are only three games scheduled at the more spacious junior high gym on E. Mill St. These are the Miami Trace, Westfall and Teays Valley games.

Major Cage Powers Open Season

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Louisville, Princeton and Davidson, three of the nation's top ranked teams help usher in the college basketball season officially tonight, but most fans are looking ahead to the UCLA at Purdue game Saturday night. UCLA, with towering Lew Alcindor back as a junior, is a unanimous choice in the preseason Associated Press poll to again win the national collegiate championship.

The big question with most fans is: How many games can UCLA win in a row? The Bruins went unbeaten last season and will be after their 35th straight against Purdue.

The game marks the opening of Purdue's new 14,500-seat arena on the campus at Lafayette, Ind., and is in the nature of a homecoming for Johnny Wooden, UCLA coach.

A native of Martinsville, Ind., Wooden played basketball at Purdue and coached at Indiana State before going to UCLA where his teams have the national championship three times in the last four years.

Seals Upset Philadelphia, 3-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
When the Oakland Seals are short-handed, hustling Gerry Odrowski can turn the deficit into a windfall.

Odrowski, Oakland's veteran penalty-killer, scored twice Thursday night as the Seals upended Philadelphia 3-1 for their first National Hockey League road victory.

The 29-year-old utility man shot the Seals to a 2-0 lead and they went on to snap a 10-game victory famine away from home.

In other games, Frank Mahovlich scored one goal and assisted on another as Toronto battled Detroit to a 3-3 deadlock and Minnesota earned a 1-1 tie with Montreal on Ted Taylor's goal late in the final period.

Reflected Glory Back in Running

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Reflected Glory, a 3-year-old whose promising career has been hampered by sore shins, goes after his first stakes triumph since last March when he takes on eight or nine rivals in the one mile of the $50,000-added Stuyvesant Handicap at Aqueduct Saturday.

The stretch running son of Jester was hailed as a contender for the divisional crown after taking the Flamingo on March 3 at Hialeah Park. But his shins began aching after he finished up the track in the Florida Derby and it wasn't until Aug. 23 at Saratoga that he got back to the races.

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Jack Montgomery went into the second round of the $35,000 Cajun Classic Golf Tournament today with a three-stroke lead.

The bespectacled Texan, one of 91 players to shoot par or better Thursday, blazed a trail of birdies in carding an eight-under-par 31-33—64 over the 6,550-yard Oakbourne Country Club layout. He missed only two greens and needed 28 putts. The course played extremely short because of a month-long drought.

Army-Navy Game Set

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Navy pits its air attack and suspect defense Saturday against a well balanced Army team which is seeking the Eastern college football championship as well as its best record since 1949.

The Middies, with a 2-4-1 record against a tougher schedule than the Cadets, are counting on quarterback John Cartwright to pass them to their first victory overarmy since 1963. The Cartwright to end Rob Taylor's passing combination the chief weapon of a team which has had difficulty establish classics is its defense. The Middies have given up an average of 26.5 points per game. Army has held seven opponents to no more than one touchdown, with only two scoring more than 10 points.

Other major opening games tonight include Temple at Creighton, Richmond at Tennessee, Duke vs. Virginia Tech at Greensboro, N. C. Centenary at Oklahoma, Texas Tech at Colorado, New Mexico at Oregon, Miami, Fla., at Washington, Idaho at Southern California and Portland at Stanford.

With the exception of Boston College, No. 7, other teams in the AP Top Ten play Saturday. In addition to UCLA at Purdue, Sacramento State is at Houston, No. 2; Virginia Tech is at North Carolina, No. 4; Utah State is at Kansas, No. 5; Northern Michigan is at Dayton, No. 6, and Vanderbilt, No. 9, is at Southern Methodist.

Denver beat Houston 98-92 and New Orleans drubbed Oakland 141-119 in the American Basketball Association. The other scheduled ABA game, Anaheim at Pittsburgh, was postponed because of a snowstorm.

Baseball Meeting To End Today; More Trades Set

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Four Kansas City groups will follow up Seattle's pitch for ownership of the American league and the National League consider expansion at a more leisurely pace.

Unless there is an unexpected roadblock, the two leagues are expected to finish their individual meetings in time to hold their final joint session in late afternoon. The joint meeting originally had been scheduled for Saturday morning.

The player market slacked off a bit Thursday but there were a few deals.

The Chicago Cubs, who tried 11 different right fielders last season, acquired 34-year-old Lou Johnson from the Los Angeles Dodgers in return for infielder Paul Popovich and minor league outfielder Jim Williams.

Johnson, hero of the Dodgers' 1965 pennant drive after he was brought up from the farm club following Tommy Davis' broken ankle, hit .270 last season with 11 home runs although he missed many games due to a broken ankle and a knee injury. Popovich hit .215 in 49 games with the Cubs and Williams batted .248 at Quincy, Ill., in the Midwest League.

Cincinnati dealt off right-handed pitcher Sammy Ellis, a disappointing 8-11 performer last season, to the California Angels for relief pitchers Bill Kelso, 5-3, and Jorge Rubio, 0-2, both right-handers. Manager Bill Rigney of the Angels promptly announced Ellis who has balked at bull-pen duty, would be a starter.

The New York Yankees bought shortstop Gene Michael from the Dodgers for an unannounced sum of cash. Michael, hailed as the replacement for Maury Wills a year ago when he came to the Dodgers in the Wills' deal, failed and batted only .202.

The Boston Red Sox acquired right-handed pitcher Ray Culp from the Chicago Cubs for minor league outfielder Bill Schlesinger and an unspecified amount of cash.

Culp, who began his National League career with the Philadelphia Phils, was 8-11 last season. Manager Dick Williams of the Red Sox said that the 26-year-old Culp will fit right into Boston's starting rotation.

Schlesinger hit .298 with Pittsburgh of the Eastern League last season with 21 home runs and 81 RBI.

This year's squad: Ends—Bob Beach, Ohio University, and Glenn Cherup, Western Michigan; Tackles—Paul Minnis, Western; Frank Peters, Ohio Univ., and Ernest George, Bowling Green; Guards—Keith Volk, Western; Dennis John Kinney, Marshall; Offensive backs—Ron Swartz, Kent State; James Perry, Bowling Green; Marty Barski, Western; and Joe Minotti, Miami; Defensive backs—Bob Jackson, Ohio Univ.; Dan Gerhardt, Miami; Craig Rader, Ohio Univ., and Michael Schott, Ohio Univ.

Major Cage Powers Open Season

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Louisville, Princeton and Davidson, three of the nation's top ranked teams help usher in the college basketball season officially tonight, but most fans are looking ahead to the UCLA at Purdue game Saturday night. UCLA, with towering Lew Alcindor back as a junior, is a unanimous choice in the pre-season Associated Press poll to again win the national collegiate championship.

The big question with most fans is: How many games can UCLA win in a row? The Bruins went unbeaten last season and will be after their 35th straight against Purdue.

The game marks the opening of Purdue's new 14,500-seat arena on the campus at Lafayette, Ind., and is in the nature of a homecoming for Johnny Wooden, UCLA coach.

A native of Martinsville, Ind., Wooden played basketball at Purdue and coached at Indiana State before going to UCLA where his teams have the national championship three times in the last four years.

Seals Upset

Philadelphia, 3-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
When the Oakland Seals are short-handed, hustling Gerry Odrowski can turn the deficit into a windfall.

Odrowski, Oakland's veteran penalty-killer, scored twice Thursday night as the Seals upended Philadelphia 3-1 for their first National Hockey League road victory.

The 29-year-old utility man shot the Seals to a 2-0 lead and they went on to snap a 10-game victory famine away from home.

In other games, Frank Mahovlich scored one goal and assisted on another as Toronto battled Detroit to a 3-3 deadlock and Minnesota earned a 1-1 tie with Montreal on Ted Taylor's goal late in the final period.

Reflected Glory

Back in Running

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Reflected Glory, a 3-year-old whose promising career has been hampered by sore shins, goes after his first stakes triumph since last March when he takes on eight or nine rivals in the one mile of the $50,000-added Stuyvesant Handicap at Aqueduct Saturday.

The stretch running son of Jester was hailed as a contender for the divisional crown after taking the Flamingo on March 3 at Hialeah Park. But his shins began aching after he finished up the track in the Florida Derby and it wasn't until Aug. 23 at Saratoga that he got back to the races.

Montgomery

Leads Cajun

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Jack Montgomery went into the second round of the $35,000 Cajun Classic Golf Tournament today with a three-stroke lead.

The bespectacled Texan, one of 91 players to shoot par or better Thursday, blazed a trail of birdies in carding an eight-under-par 31-33-64 over the 6,550-yard Oakbourne Country Club layout. He missed only two greens and needed 28 putts. The course played extremely short because of a month-long drought.

Dogs Compete

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The English and Canadian champions and the defending American amateur champion are among 38 dogs which will compete Monday in the National Amateur Field Trial Championship for English Springer Spaniels.

Louisville and Princeton, although playing under new coaches John Dromo and Pete Carril, respectively, are favored to win, but the Davidson Wildcats are a question mark.

The wildcats beat out Indiana and Tennessee by a narrow margin for the last spot in the pre-season Top Ten on he their best team since Fred Hetzel.

Southern Illinois, the NIT winner last year, will play its first game as a major power at home against Sam Houston State.

Army-Navy

Game Set

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Navy pits its air attack and stout defense Saturday against a well balanced Army team which is seeking the Eastern college football championship as well as its best record since 1949.

The Middies, with a 2-4-1 record against a tougher schedule than the Cadets, are counting on quarterback John Cartwright to pass them to their first victory over Army since 1963. The Cartwright to end Rob Taylor's passing combination the chief weapon of a team which has had difficulty establishing classics is its defense. The Middies have given up an average of 26.5 points per game. Army has held seven opponents to no more than one touchdown, with only two scoring more than 10 points.

Other major opening games tonight include Temple at Creighton, Richmond at Tennessee, Duke vs. Virginia Tech at Greensboro, N. C. Centenary at Oklahoma, Texas Tech at Colorado, New Mexico at Oregon, Miami, Fla., at Washington, Idaho at Southern California and Portland at Stanford.

With the exception of Boston College, No. 7, other teams in the AP Top Ten play Saturday. In addition to UCLA at Purdue, Sacramento State is at Houston, No. 2; Virginia Tech is at North Carolina, No. 4; Utah State is at Kansas, No. 5; Northern Michigan is at Dayton, No. 6, and Vanderbilt, No. 9, is at Southern Methodist.

Boston College doesn't open until next week.

Hawks Trample

Rockets, 129-87

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lennie Wilkens seldom is high scorer for the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association, but the former star for the Providence College Friars usually is thereabouts.

The 6-foot-1 star threw in 34 points to pace the Hawks over the San Diego Rockets 129-87 in the only NBA game scheduled Thursday night.

Denver beat Houston 98-92 and New Orleans drubbed Oakland 141-119 in the American Basketball Association. The other scheduled ABA game, Anaheim at Pittsburgh, was postponed because of a snowstorm.

Baseball Meeting To End Today; More Trades Set

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Four Kansas City groups will follow up Seattle's pitch for ownership the American league and the National League consider expansion at a more leisurely pace.

Unless there is an unexpected roadblock, the two leagues are expected to finish their individual meetings in time to hold their final joint session in late afternoon. The joint meeting originally had been scheduled for Saturday morning.

The player market slacked off a bit Thursday but there were a few deals.

The Chicago Cubs, who tried 11 different right fielders last season, acquired 34-year-old Lou Johnson from the Los Angeles Dodgers in return for infielder Paul Popovich and minor league outfielder Jim Williams.

Johnson, hero of the Dodgers' 1965 pennant drive after he was brought up from the farm club following Tommy Davis' broken ankle, hit .270 last season with 11 home runs although he missed many games due to a broken ankle and a knee injury. Popovich hit .215 in 49 games with the Cubs and Williams batted .248 at Quincy, Ill., in the Midwest League.

Cincinnati dealt off right-handed pitcher Sammy Ellis, a disappointing 8-11 performer last season, to the California Angels for relief pitchers Bill Kelso, 5-3, and Jorge Rubio, 0-2, both right-handers. Manager Bill Rigney of the Angels promptly announced Ellis who has balked at bull-pen duty, would be a starter.

The New York Yankees bought shortstop Gene Michael from the Dodgers for an unannounced sum of cash. Michael, hailed as the replacement for Maury Wills a year ago when he came to the Dodgers in the Wills' deal, failed and batted only .202.

The Boston Red Sox acquired right-handed pitcher Ray Culp from the Chicago Cubs for minor league outfielder Bill Schleisinger and an unspecified amount of cash.

Culp, who began his National League career with the Philadelphia Phils, was 8-11 last season. Manager Dick Williams of the Red Sox said that the 26-year-old Culp will fit right into Boston's starting rotation.

Schleisinger hit .298 with Pittsburgh of the Eastern League last season with 21 home runs and 81 RBI.

ANYBODY HERE SEEN KELLY?—Yes, and no, depending on whether you're a player or a fan. Leroy Kelly, the Browns' man in motion, is off on a big yardage gain here during his recent appearance against the Washington Redskins in Cleveland, a game in which he piled up 163 yards on 20 carries and went over the 1,000-yard mark for the second year in a row. Only two others, Jim Brown and Jim Taylor, have piled up 1,000 yards or more for two seasons.

Commercial Jets Used For Viet War

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon is using passenger-carrying commercial airliners on occasion to speed ammunition to Vietnam.

Defense officials said airliners have carried ordnance on an irregular basis since January to meet emergencies in the war zone.

"There are times when all our equipment is occupied, and then we use the bellies of commercial airliners," a spokesman for the Military Airlift Command said Thursday.

"Equipment" refers to the command's more than 400 military planes plus regularly chartered commercial jet transports.

The spokesman emphasized only "priorities of a high nature" were routed to Southeast Asia via commercial lines. The Air Force said this included rockets, hand grenades and ammunition for cannons.

Great care is taken to make sure the shipments pose no hazard to passengers, the Air Force said.

Since the first of the year, the Air Force said, about 600 tons of ordnance has been shipped by commercial airliner, an amount described as "minimal." Most of it is transported by ship.

So far the Pentagon has used Pan American, Trans World, American, United, Braniff and Seaboard World Airlines.

The ammunition shipments require special packing, marking and labeling "over and above" they normally required for movement by ship and equal to or more stringent than that required for movement by rail, the Air Force said.

The pilot of the airliner, or his representative, is briefed before takeoff on exactly what ordnance is aboard.

This information presumably would be taken into consideration any time an ammunition-loaded airliner was confronted with a possible crash landing.

The Defense Department gave the Military Airlift Command authority to charter commercial planes for ammunition flights this year "only when it is not feasible or practical" to use MAC craft.

Rhodes Officially Offered Delegates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes said Thursday he will make no decisions until after Dec. 15 on his second invitation to become Ohio's "favorite son" candidate for president at next summer's Republican Convention.

The State GOP Committee voted unanimously Thursday to offer the invitation to Rhodes, who was a "favorite son" going into the 1964 convention. Rhodes who said he was delaying his decision because "I haven't made up my mind," stayed in his office while the State Central and Executive GOP committees met.

Participating as a member of the committee was GOP National Chairman Ray Bliss of Akron, who said he would remain neutral in the battle for the party nomination and declined to say who the leading contenders might be.

Wildcat Strike Ends at Warren

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A wildcat strike that idled 2,400 day-shift workers at General Motors' Lordstown plant Thursday was ended with the start of the night shift.

A spokesman for the strikers, members of Local 1112 of the United Auto Workers, said the walkout strike during November at the big Chevrolet and Fisher Body assembly plant.

Death Brings Damage Suit

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A Cleveland man whose blind daughter fell to her death down an elevator shaft in the YWCA building here has filed a $500,000 damage suit.

The suit was filed Thursday in Summit County Common Pleas Court by Peter Ryncarz, father of Genevieve Ryncarz. Named defendants were the YWCA and the Otis Elevator Co.

Miss Ryncarz, 21, and Donna Clifford, 17, of North Ridgeville were killed July 9 when they stepped into the open shaft at the seventh-floor level, apparently thinking the automatic elevator had stopped there. Actually, the elevator was at the floor level.

Ryncarz contended in his suit that the YWCA was negligent in failing to repair or barricade the door and in failing to notify residents, especially the blind, that the door could be opened when the elevator was not there.

The two girls had been taking courses for the blind at the YWCA for about two months before the accident.

Senate OKs Call for U.N. Viet Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has approved without dissent a call for United Nations action on the Vietnam war but delayed a vote on a proposal to protest Secretary of State Dean Rusk's refusal to testify publicly on the war.

The resolution, adopted Thursday by an 82-0 vote expresses the sense of the Senate that President Johnson consider directing this country's U.N. representatives to seek action by the world body on the Vietnam issue.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who sponsored the resolution said there is urgent need for Johnson to seek U.N. involvement in an attempt to find peace.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he doesn't know whether the U.N. can be effective on Vietnam but "the United States has no choice but to take every road that might lead to peace."

Fulbright's committee put off action Thursday on the proposal that it protest formally Rusk's refusal to discuss the war at a public hearing. Rusk has maintained a more valuable exchange would come at a closed session but the State Department said Thursday he hasn't decided whether to appear at a public session.

Profits Drop

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Transit System's profits for the first 10 months of 1967 are only $48,782, compared with $561,885 in the first 10 months of last year, the system's financial report for October showed today. Wage increases for employees went into effect in July, and fares were increased two weeks later.

Paralyzed Men Start New Life

CLEVELAND (AP)—A couple of young men fly away from wintry Cleveland today to start a new life in Cuernavaca, Mexico. They're on their own again for the first time in years. As much on their own, that is, as completely paralyzed men in wheelchairs can be.

"We're as rehabilitated as we'll ever be," said Gordon Miller, 30, of Allen, Mich., who has been paralyzed since an auto accident near London England, 10 years ago while he was in the Air Force.

"We're tired of this life here," said Bob Norsic, 25, of Cleveland whose paralysis dates from a plunge down a 70-foot cliff in Okinawa three years ago while he was on Marine Corps night maneuvers.

The two have been patients in Cleveland Veterans Hospital. "We kept parking wheelchairs next to each other," Norsic said in explaining how they got to be friends.

The two men get a total of $850 a month federal disability payments and figure they can live in Mexico for $250.

Lorain Faces Transit Strike

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Bus drivers voted to go on strike today against the Lorain-Elyria Transit Co., affecting routes in five Lorain County communities. Lorain school pupils also use the buses.

The bus line has routes to Amherst, North Ridgeville and Sheffield as well as in Lorain and Elyria.

Robert Fidler of Elyria, president of Local 1034, Amalgamated Transit Union, said the strike vote Thursday night by about 35 drivers was unanimous. The drivers turned down a company offer of 11-cent hourly raises over 30 months.

Present top pay is $2.21 an hour.

Commercial Jets Used For Viet War

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon is using passenger-carrying commercial airliners on occasion to speed ammunition to Vietnam.

Defense officials said airliners have carried ordnance on an irregular basis since January to meet emergencies in the war zone.

"There are times when all our equipment is occupied, and then we use the bellies of commercial airliners," a spokesman for the Military Airlift Command said Thursday.

"Equipment" refers to the command's more than 400 military planes plus regularly chartered commercial jet transports.

The spokesman emphasized only "priorities of a high nature" were routed to Southeast Asia via commercial lines. The Air Force said this included rockets, hand grenades and ammunition for cannons.

Great care is taken to make sure the shipments pose no hazard to passengers, the Air Force said.

Since the first of the year, the Air Force said, about 600 tons of ordnance has been shipped by commercial airliner, an amount described as "minimal." Most of it is transported by ship.

So far the Pentagon has used Pan American, Trans World, American, United, Braniff and Seaboard World Airlines.

The ammunition shipments require special packing, marking and labeling "over and above that normally required for movement by ship and equal to or more stringent than that required for movement by rail," the Air Force said.

The pilot of the airliner, or his representative, is briefed before takeoff on exactly what ordnance is aboard.

This information presumably would be taken into consideration any time an ammunition-loaded airliner was confronted with a possible crash landing.

The Defense Department gave the Military Airlift Command authority to charter commercial planes for ammunition flights this year "only when it is not feasible or practical" to use MAC craft.

Rhodes Officially Offered Delegates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes said Thursday he will make no decisions until after Dec. 15 on his second invitation to become Ohio's "favorite son" candidate for president at next summer's Republican Convention.

The State GOP Committee voted unanimously Thursday to offer the invitation to Rhodes, who was a "favorite son" going into the 1964 convention. Rhodes who said he was delaying his decision because "I haven't made up my mind," stayed in his office while the State Central and Executive GOP committees met.

Participating as a member of the committee was GOP National Chairman Ray Bliss of Akron, who said he would remain neutral in the battle for the party nomination and declined to say who the leading contenders might be.

Death Brings Damage Suit

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A Cleveland man whose blind daughter fell to her death down an elevator shaft in the YWCA building here has filed a $500,000 damage suit.

The suit was filed Thursday in Summit County Common Pleas Court by Peter Ryncarz, father of Genevieve Ryncarz. Named defendants were the YWCA and the Otis Elevator Co.

Miss Ryncarz, 21, and Donna Clifford, 17, of North Ridgeville were killed July 9 when they stepped into the open shaft at the seventh-floor level, apparently thinking the automatic elevator had stopped there. Actually, the elevator was at the floor level.

Ryncarz contended in his suit that the YWCA was negligent in failing to repair or barricade the door and in failing to notify residents, especially the blind, that the door could be opened when the elevator was not there.

The two girls had been taking courses for the blind at the YWCA for about two months before the accident.

Senate OKs Call for U.N. Viet Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved without dissent a call for United Nations action on the Vietnam war but delayed a vote on a proposal to protest Secretary of State Dean Rusk's refusal to testify publicly on the war.

The resolution, adopted Thursday by an 82-0 vote expresses the sense of the Senate that President Johnson consider directing this country's U.N. representatives to seek action by the world body on the Vietnam issue.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who sponsored the resolution said there is urgent need for Johnson to seek U.N. involvement in an attempt to find peace.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he doesn't know whether the UN. can be effective on Vietnam but "the United States has no choice but to take every road that might lead to peace."

Fulbright's committee put off action Thursday on the proposal that it protest formally Rusk's refusal to discuss the war at a public hearing. Rusk has maintained a more valuable exchange would come at a closed session but the State Department said Thursday he hasn't decided whether to appear at a public session.

Profits Drop

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Transit System's profits for the first 10 months of 1967 are only $48,782, compared with $561,885 in the first 10 months of last year, the system's financial report for October showed today. Wage increases for employees went into effect in July, and fares were increased two weeks later.

Paralyzed Men Start New Life

CLEVELAND (AP)—A couple of young men fly away from wintry Cleveland today to start a new life in Cuernavaca, Mexico. They're on their own again for the first time in years. As much on their own, that is, as completely paralyzed men in wheelchairs can be.

"We're as rehabilitated as we'll ever be," said Gordon Miller, 30, of Allen, Mich., who has been paralyzed since an auto accident near London, England, 10 years ago while he was in the Air Force.

"We're tired of this life here," said Bob Norsic, 25, of Cleveland whose paralysis dates from a plunge down a 70-foot cliff in Okinawa three years ago while he was on Marine Corps night maneuvers. The two have been patients in Cleveland Veterans Hospital.

"We kept parking wheelchairs next to each other," Norsic said in explaining how they got to be friends.

The two men get a total of $850 a month federal disability payments and figure they can live in Mexico for $250.
